EARTHQUAKE LEAVES 35 DEAD

TIPS OVER . . . Five-story recreation wing of Olive View Sanitarium in Sylmar area tipped over in earthquake.

Thousands Evacuated Below Leaking Dam

Los Angeles (AP) — A powerful earthquake staggered Southern California Tuesday, leaving at least 35 dead and forcing the start of evacuation of approximately 80,000 people because of a leaking dam.

Authorities make the evacuation "mandatory," saying they feared a strong new tremor might cause a flood.

More than 850 people were treated for injuries at various hospitals in and around Los Angeles. Seven of the fatalities were caused by heart attacks.

Property damage was extensive as walls collapsed, streets buckled and caved in and windows were shattered in the heavily populated areas around Los Angeles.

Disaster Declared

In Washington, President Nixon issued a formal declaration of a major disaster, opening the way for help for the stricken area from more than a dozen government agencies. Vice President Spiro T. Agnew will go to the area Wednesday.

The heaviest loss of life was at the Veterans Administration Hospital at Sylmar, at the western end of the hard-hit San Fernando Valley. There, 19 bodies were found and 100 persons were injured when two aging buildings collapsed. Ten hours after the first shock an estimated 30 persons, mostly patients, were reported still trapped.

"We still have live people in there," said a spokesman. "Rescue workers hear voices. Nobody's been able to get into the basement area. People could be alive in there."

Tall buildings swayed in downtown Los Angeles when the quake hit at 6:01 a.m. PST, just at dawn. Windows shattered and some older buildings collapsed.

The city estimated that 427 buildings received structural damage. The county estimated damage to its buildings alone at $125 million. Officials said tall buildings, however, showed little harm from the shock although windows were broken.

Soledad Canyon Fault

Seismologists placed the quake's center 26 miles northwest of downtown Los Angeles in the rugged San Gabriel Mountains and blamed the Soledad Canyon Fault, which intersects the San Gabriel Fault, which at first was tabbed. A scientist who reached the scene found evidence of vertical cracking, with one side higher than the other, and numerous landslides. There were no wide cracks, and all could be stepped over, said a spokesman for the seismographic laboratory at the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena.

The initial shock was assigned a magnitude of 6.6 on the Richter scale, which grades anything over 7 as a major quake. There were hundreds of aftershocks, one registering 5.5 on the scale.

Residents of the San Fernando Valley had a tense day as police warned them by the thousands to move out of the path of possible water flow from Van Norman Lake dam, the city's largest reservoir.

The initial shock shattered the concrete facing and caused wide fissures in its 1,500-foot main wall of compressed earth. There was some leaking and part of the dam fell into the lake. Officials began draining it and said it should reach a safe level by late Wednesday. The dam's two lakes can hold 6.7 billion gallons of water. Both were being emptied into river beds and catch basins.

Three of the dead were found at Olive View Sanitarium, a new $23 million complex a mile from the Veterans Hospital, where walls collapsed.

Two others were killed when a freeway overpass collapsed at Sylmar, another died in a bridge collapse at Newhall and another in the collapse of a roof at a skid row mission in Los Angeles.

The jolting first shock struck hardest at the Los Angeles commuting area in the San Fernando Valley, with a population of 1.3 million. Also seriously hit were the towns of Newhall and Saugus, with an area population of 70,000, also within 10 miles of the center.

The county's nearly seven million residents were asleep or preparing for the day when the shock came — sudden shakes for those close, a strong rolling motion for those more distant.

The Veterans Administration facility had 80 patients in three wards in the collapsed buildings.

Bob Dutton, 44, a patient on the third floor, said he was in a wheel chair due to a bad back but when the quake hit "I learned to walk. I jumped for the door and when I reached the hall and turned around to look back there was nothing there — just wide open space. It looked like someone had sliced the building."

At Olive View Sanitarium Dr. John R. Arberberry, 42, said he was in the emergency room giving oxygen to an asthma patient when "The building shook like it was being rung by the neck. We were all knocked to our knees." The doors jammed, and they crawled out through a hole in a wall, he said.

Astronauts Safe; Mission 'Perfect'

Aboard USS New Orleans (AP) — Apollo 14 astronauts splashed down safely on target in the South Pacific and were brought aboard this carrier Tuesday after completing man's most successful moon mission.

Scientists, space officials and President Nixon hailed the mission.

Astronauts Alan B. Shepard Jr., Stuart A. Roosa and Edgar D. Mitchell dropped into the Pacific at 3:05 p.m. CST, ending a nine-day, 1.15-million-mile voyage to the moon and back.

"We're all fine in here," said Shepard, seconds after the Apollo command ship splashed into the choppy water.

"Welcome home," the carrier radioed.

"Thank you, sir," came a quick reply.

George Low, acting administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said, "I can only give this mission an absolutely perfect score.

"We saw and heard two highly skilled explorers seeking the top of Cone Crater, collecting samples, setting up experiments and taking photographs, compiling the most complete exploration of one small part of the moon yet.

Shepard and Mitchell spent 33½ hours on the moon's surface. They gathered rocks that may be as old as the moon itself and they set up an atomic-powered science station which is already working smoothly and providing valuable information.

President Nixon telephoned the spacemen on the carrier and said:

"We're just so proud and happy to have you all back." He told the 47-year-old Shepard, "You give all of us older fellows hope."

The splashdown was one of the most accurate ever achieved, less than five miles from the prime recovery ship.

Two subdued sonic booms first announced the spacecraft was coming down nearby.

Many Parachutes

Moments later, the spacecraft was sighted dragging two small white parachutes. These were followed by three white pilot parachutes and, finally, three huge orange and white parachutes blossomed in full view of the carrier.

The spacecraft splashed into the warm Polynesian waters, helicopters hovered overhead and swimmers leaped into the sea to secure the craft with a flotation collar so that it wouldn't sink.

The astronauts scrambled into an orange life raft and were taken up into a helicopter and flown to the carrier deck where they then walked directly to a trailer-like quarantine van.

Brineys Must Pay Intruder $30,000

Des Moines (UPI) — The Iowa Supreme Court, ruling that defense of property does not warrant the infliction of serious injury or death, Tuesday upheld a $30,000 damage finding against a farm couple who rigged a spring gun in a vacant house to ward off intruders.

In an 8-1 decision, the high court upheld the award of $20,000 in actual damages and $10,000 in punitive damages to Marvin Katko, an Eddyville service station attendant. Katko was struck in the right leg by a blast from a shotgun set up by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Briney in an abandoned farm house they owned.

Katko admitted he was trespassing and pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny in the nighttime, but he sued the Brineys for compensation for his injuries. The court record noted there was "undenied medical testimony" that Katko had a "permanent deformity, a loss of tissue and a shortening of the leg."

The Brineys contended the home contained valuable and irreplacable antiques and had been subject to repeated intrusions during a 10-year period from 1957 to 1967. The farm couple said as a last resort, they rigged the booby trap to "frighten or scare away" intruders. Friends of the Brineys established a "defense fund" to finance their appeal.

The issue before the Iowa Supreme Court was to what extent a man may go to protect his personal property. Iowa statutes do not cover the use of spring guns or other man-killing devices.

Testifying in Mahaska County District Court, Briney said he rigged the gun in the summer of 1967 "because I was mad and tired of being tormented" but said he "did not intend to injure anyone."

In ruling for Katko, however, the high court said there was a loaded shell in the spring gun, it was not visible from the outside and there was no warning of the gun's presence.

Human Life More Important

The majority opinion, written by Chief Justice C. Edwin Moore, said the law "has always placed a higher value upon human safety than upon mere rights of property." Moore said there is no privilege to use calculated force resulting in death or serious injury to repel trespassers.

"Spring guns and other man-killing devices are not justifiable against a mere trespasser or a petty thief," Moore said.

However, the opinion said there was a distinction between the defense of abandoned or uninhabited property and the protection of a dwelling or personal property and life of a family.

Special NU Faculty Meeting Set To Discuss Rozman Case

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

A special meeting of all University of Nebraska faculty members has been called for Monday afternoon to consider the Board of Regents' decision not to rehire Prof. Stephen Rozman.

The meeting was called by the powerful faculty liaison committee, which said it had "concluded that the board's action raises grave and substantial issues of academic freedom at this university."

In an announcement at a meeting of the NU faculty senate, the liaison committee said the faculty meeting would begin at 3:30 p.m. Monday in Kimball Recital Hall.

Speaking for the committee, Prof. Wallace Peterson said the meeting "is for the purpose of consideration of the regents' actions in the Rozman case."

"Any resolution" pertinent to the case will be considered, Peterson announced.

The committee's decision apparently came Monday night when the liaison committee met privately to discuss the case.

Members of the committee also discussed the issue with members of a special faculty fact-finding committee which studied the Rozman case and reported to the regents that they found the political science professor guilty of no inappropriate actions last May.

The conclusion ran contrary to the conclusion of a special citizens commission which studied last spring's antiwar activities on the Lincoln campus.

Earlier Tuesday, Rozman told a news conference that the board's action "against me last Saturday has politicized and polarized this university more than any group of radicals could have ever hoped to do."

He also charged that the NU administration, by "automatically identify(ing) themselves in public with the actions taken by the Board of Regents," further "serves to politicize and polarize this campus."

Later, in answer to a newsman's question, Rozman said he would probably file a civil rights action in federal district court in Lincoln by the end of the week.

He said the suit would charge that the regents conspired to deny him his basic civil rights and acted to deny his civil rights on the basis of beliefs, "including political beliefs."

In the announcement of the Monday meeting, Peterson told the faculty senate that the date was set so that the faculty could study the regents' resolution, the fact-finding committee's report, and a statement that committee will make this week.

Meanwhile students continued their efforts to draw attention to the Rozman case, asking faculty members to speak around the campus to various student living units.

New York Times News Summary

Laotian Incursion May Buy A Year Or Two

(C) New York Times News Service

Washington — Administration sources said the South Vietnamese incursion into Laos could possibly make it extremely difficult for the North Vietnamese to mount a major offensive for a year or possibly two years. This could be achieved not only through destruction of supplies and supply routes now, but also by establishing a precedent for South Vietnamese action in Laos. Secretary of State Rogers and Defense Secretary Laird appeared before congressional committees to report on the Laotian incursion. They both denied any expansion of the war, saying that it would be shortened as a result of the incursion. Laird also predicted that an additional 50,000 troops could be withdrawn from Vietnam by May 1.

Weather Curtails Air Support

Quang Tri, South Vietnam — Heavy rains and dense fog brought air support for the South Vietnamese operation in Laos to a halt and provided cover for enemy troops who shelled American and South Vietnamese positions. (More on Page 2.)

Israel OKs Canal Reopening

Jerusalem — In a major address to the Israeli parliament, Premier Golda Meir declared her country's willingness to support the reopening of the Suez Canal provided that it is open to all ships, including Israel's. Mrs. Meir also said she was prepared for direct discussions with Egypt about a "mutual de-escalation of the military confrontation."

Splashdown Is Precise

Houston — The Apollo 14 mission ended as the three astronauts rode their spacecraft down into the Pacific Ocean to a safe and precise splashdown. (More on Page 1.)

Euromart OKs Money Plan

Brussels — The six Common Market countries agreed after months of argument to a plan to make their trade area into a single currency area over the next decade. The accord was seen as a decision by Europe to loosen itself from the dollar. It was also viewed as a new thrust toward a political union.

Quake Hits Southern California

Los Angeles — A severe earthquake struck Southern California, killing at least 35 persons and causing millions of dollars worth of damage. (More on Page 1.)

Retail Zoning Proposed

New York — Mayor John V. Lindsay announced a zoning proposal designed to preserve the prestige retail character of the midtown area of Fifth Avenue. The proposal would return housing to the area and designate the areas between 38th and 59th Streets a special retail district.

Credit Rating Blame Assigned

New York — A major investment-rating service reported that the bad publicity that the city received because of strikes, welfare and other municipal problems has been a major factor in the failure to upgrade the city's credit rating. The service also said many of Mayor Lindsay's "gloomy prophecies" was another factor.

Artillery Base Set Up 15 Miles Inside Laos

World News

Saigon (AP) — South Vietnamese troops and tanks pressed westward across branches of the Ho Chi Minh Trail in southern Laos Tuesday behind enemy forces retreating under the furious lash of U.S. air power.

At last reports, the main column in the second day of the operation had proceeded about 12 miles inside Laos along Highway 9, slowed by U.S. bomb craters in the road and bad weather that suddenly closed in. They also were halting to seize munitions caches. Helicopter-borne troops set up a fire base 15 miles west of the Vietnamese border.

Ahead of the South Vietnamese, 25 miles deep into Laos, lay Sepone, heavily bombed and almost deserted. It is a main transshipment point on the trail and a North Vietnamese operating base.

Operating in front of the South Vietnamese, U.S. helicopter Cobras attacked enemy supply depots 15 miles inside Laos. Frontier reports said the Cobras hit at least one oil dump and an ammunition storage area, causing large fires and some explosions.

2 Fire Bases Set Up

Field dispatches said the South Vietnamese had set up two artillery fire bases inside Laos, one of them 15 miles west of the border.

These reports said U.S. cargo helicopters air-lifted five 105mm howitzers and half a dozen mortars along with ammunition and other supplies for the new fire bases.

Theo bject of the South Vietnamese incursion is to cut the Ho Chi Minh Trail, the last major supply route of the North Vietnamese to Cambodia and South Vietnam, and to smash bases.

Field reports indicated some South Vietnamese troops, probably reconnaissance units, may be in the Sepone area, but Saigon headquarters reported the base had not yet been taken. Sepone has a dirt airstrip and South Vietnamese engineers are expected to rebuild it.

A South Vietnamese field commander said he expected his troops to push on westward along Highway 9 during the next 10 days toward Savannakhet, on the western border of Laos, thus snipping off all the branches of roads that form the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

Reds Hit Lifeline

While the North Vietnamese were putting up little resistance in front, some units were striking at the South Vietnamese lifeline farther east in South Vietnam.

North Vietnamese launched a sharp attack against a U.S. position northwest of Lang Vei and less than a mile from the Laotian border. About 9,000 U.S. troops are acting as a blocking force for the 20,000 South Vietnamese troops entering Laos.

The fighting northwest of Lang Vei broke out late in the afternoon and continued after nightfall. U.S. troops took some casualties.

The U.S. Command said American troops had uncovered four caches containing 4½ tons of munitions around Khe Sanh, the forward support position for the South Vietnamese operation.

U.S. spokesman said there were nine mortar attacks on other American troops positions in the area of Highway 9. Two Americans were killed at one artillery base.

Parellel Drive Hit

About 200 miles south of the Laotian operation, a parallel westward drive into eastern Cambodia by another force of 20,000 South Vietnamese ran into fierce resistance.

North Vietnamese forces deployed near the town of Snuol, five miles inside Cambodia, launched three attacks against the advancing South Vietnamese. Snuol is 90 miles north of Saigon.

In the ensuing battles, 73 North Vietnamese were killed, Saigon headquarters reported. The South Vietnamese took losses of 10 killed and 42 wounded.

Farther west, where South Vietnamese forces have speared 35 miles into eastern Cambodia, fierce forest fires ranged in the huge Chup rubber plantation.

South Vietnamese and North Vietnamese forces have been heavily engaged here and the fires were believed touched off by allied air strikes. The French-owned plantation covers 75 square miles and is the largest in Indochina.

Long Cheng Pressed

A dispatch from Vientiane, the capital of Laos, said the North Vietnamese were putting more pressure on the major base at Long Cheng, 79 miles to the north, despite the incursion into southern Laos.

Long Cheng is headquarters for Gen. Van Pao's Meo tribal army southwest of the Plain of Jars.

The government's forces also abandoned six outposts on the ridge line between Long Cheng and the Plain of Jars, the dispatch added.

Susan Atkins Confesses She Killed Sharon Tate

Los Angeles (UPI) — Susan Atkins confessed Tuesday she personally killed Sharon Tate, but that the whole thing was the idea of state key witness Linda Kasabian.

Miss Atkins gave the first complete account of what happened inside the Tate house in testimony geared to whitewash Charles Manson of any responsibility for the slayings.

The dark-haired young woman said the pregnant actress, Jay Sebring, Voityck Frykowski and Abigail Folger were herded into the living room where Charles "Tex" Watson shot Sebring, then tied a rope around his neck and linked it to Miss Tate's neck.

She said Watson told the couple to lie on the floor and directed the girls to turn off the light.

"They kept saying, 'Please don't hurt us, we won't tell the police.'

'Swinging My Knife'

"Frykowski kept pulling at my hair and I was fighting for my life and I was swinging my knife and I felt it going into something and I didn't know what it was. Katie (Patricia Krenwinkel) was fighting with the two women and Linda came in to help her.

"Tex stabbed the man on the floor," she continued, referring to Sebring.

She said Miss Folger and Frykowski ran out of the house "and I was alone with that woman (Miss Tate). She said, 'Please don't kill me,' and I told her to shut up and I threw her down on the couch.

"She said, 'Please let me have my baby.'

'I Killed Her'

"Then Tex came in and he said kill her, and I killed her. I just stabbed her and she fell and I stabbed her again. I don't know how many times. I don't know why I stabbed her," Miss Atkins said.

Miss Atkins said Watson, Miss Krenwinkel and Leslie Van Houten went into the LaBianca home and that when she came back to the Spahn ranch that night "I think Charlie was there asleep. It is very foggy who was there."

Miss Atkins said Manson did not go to the home of grocer Leno LaBianca, although Mrs. Kasabian said he entered the house and sent in three of his "family" to murder the wealthy grocery chain owner and his wife.

Miss Atkins said she, Mrs. Kasabian, Watson and Miss Krenwinkel all went into the Tate home and "then everything just happened."

Confesses Killing Hinman

Miss Atkins said the actual motivation for the Tate killings grew out of the slaying of musician Gary Hinman, which she said she personally committed.

After "family" member Robert Beausoleil was arrested for that crime, she said, she decided to get him free.

The witness said that after the Hinman murder she and Miss Van Houten and Miss Krenwinkel talked about what they could do and Miss Kasabian overheard their conversation.

She said Mrs. Kasabian told them what they could do — "make it look like somebody else did it. Do a copy. Make some more of the same, lots of them everywhere, and they'll cut Bobby loose and everyone will go free."

Miss Atkins said she was "stoned on acid" at the time and could remember few of the details of the murders.

March Draft To Be 17,000

Washington (UPI) — The Defense Department Tuesday asked that the draft call for March be the same as for the two previous months — 17,000 men, all for the Army.

The Selective Service calls for the first three months of the year will total about the same as for the first quarter of 1970, and about half the total for the corresponding quarter of 1969.

Top Nebraska Number Said 100

Nebraska Selective Service Director, Col. Lee Liggett, said that the draft call for Nebraska for March will be 146 as compared to 162 in February. The January call was 143.

He said the maximum lottery number to which any local board could go in filling its quota would remain at 100.

Editors Sent Column Saying Fulbright Hopes U.S. Loses

(C) Washington Star

Washington — Herbert G. Klein, President Nixon's director of communications, has mailed to some 600 editorial writers copies of a column by Joseph Alsop describing Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., as "downright eager to be proved right by an American defeat" in Southeast Asia.

The column, which appeared Monday, was accompanied by a letter from Klein on White House stationery saying that Alsop had "written persuasively of the necessity" for the South Vietnamese military operation in Laos.

In the letter, Klein said he knew "you will find it (the Alsop column) timely and interesting."

Klein made no specific reference to the mention of Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, in the column.

Questioned about the matter Tuesday, White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said he did not believe the President knew about the dissemination of the column.

Ziegler replied with a flat "no" when asked if dissemination of the column implied White House endorsement of its reference to Fulbright, a leading critic of U.S. policy in Indochina.

Asked if anyone in the White House believed anyone in Congress wished for American defeat in South Vietnam, Ziegler said everyone is aware there are differing opinions about South Vietnam, but he would accept the premise of the question.

In the course of the column, Alsop wrote that "Senator Fulbright and many of his colleagues are downright eager to be proved right by an American defeat in war and will loathe being proved wrong by U.S. success in Southeast Asia."

ACS Allotment Dispute Brings 3 Resignations

. . . Hitchcock Committeemen Disagree With Terms

Trenton (AP) — Three members of the Hitchcock County Committee of the U.S. Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASC) have resigned in a dispute over 1971 wheat allotments, it was disclosed Tuesday.

According to the ASC county office the three men "walked out" after they were told by state officials to allow county farmers to prove their average wheat production per acre over a three-year period. Farmers who provide such proof may increase their allowable wheat production per acre under ASC statutes.

The three men who resigned are Wilbert Wagner of Culbertson, chairman of the county committee, and fellow committee members Willis Brannan of Stratton and Clarence Hay of Trenton.

Brannan commented Tuesday that he "could not see myself as saying one neighbor is better than another."

Wagner said they had resigned because "we could not represent the farmers of Hitchcock County under the present procedures."

He added, referring to state program officials: "They didn't want our farmers to get along. That way they can kill more programs."

'Some Local Conflicts'

ASC State Executive Director Merle Mintling commented Tuesday in Lincoln, "I'm afraid that there are some things that don't show on the surface, and probably some local personality conflicts. And they didn't like the privilege as it applies to a producer who can come in and prove his yield. They feel it has to do with the greedy and not the needy."

He added: "The day they decide to resign I talked to them for 45 minutes. And there were no ill feelings."

Mintling explained, "Hitchcock County had taken the stand that they would not adjust anybody, which caused quite a bit of static.

"So rather than back down, they just decided to resign."

Mintling said the provision to allow farmers to increase their wheat yield allotment has been law since 1961, and had been used before in Hitchcock County.

According to district ASC representative Raymond Stenho, "Regulations do provide that every farmer be given a chance to prove his yield on wheat if he wants to. Then, if he doesn't want to prove it, the county committee sets his yield."

Explains Program

He explained that, as the program now stands, if a farmer comes to the committee with proofs in the form of elevator receipts, grain in storage or the like over the period of 1967-69, his wheat allotment may be raised.

Stehno said, "If proven yields are accepted (by the county committee) the farmer could raise up to 40, 41 or 42 bushels per acre" of wheat.

Committeeman Hay said, "Only six or seven farmers in Hitchcock County would care to or could prove what their yields were. And proof of yield would discriminate against the 60 or 70 who are just as good farmers."

When the three regular committeemen resigned, two alternate members took over. They are Harry Buhler of Trenton, the new chairman, and John Burks of Stratton, vice chairman.

Officials said a county convention was called Tuesday for Feb. 22, when a third member of the county ASC committee and two new alternates would be elected.

County ASC representative Stehno said Tuesday that Butler and Burks were "going over the figures, and will probably have new yields to announce at the county convention."

Buhler and Burks declined to comment.

Mrs. Davis Tells Jury Of Son's Lincoln Visit

Grand Island (AP) — Mrs. Margaret Davis told a District Court jury Tuesday that her son, Thomas Davis, visited her in Lincoln the afternoon before her son's wife, Phyllis, was found dead in a wrecked auto.

Thomas Davis is on trial for the second time on charges of killing his wife Aug. 14, 1968. He was convicted once before, but the State Supreme Court overturned the conviction and ordered a retrial.

In the sixth day of testimony Tuesday, Mrs. Davis said that her son and two of his children, Tatje and Tommie, arrived in Lincoln at about 5:30 on the afternoon before the dead woman was found. She said her husband and her father, Davis' grandfather, were also there.

Mrs. Davis testified that her son was gone in the family car for approximately 45 minutes to an hour, returned home at six o'clock for supper, and then left again at about 8:30 p.m., returning home two hours later.

Called Wife

At 10:30, she said, Davis telephoned collect to his home in Grand Island to talk with his wife. Mrs. Davis said that she also talked with Davis' wife.

During the night Mrs. Davis said she got up and noticed that her son was in bed.

Davis' father, Thomas B. Davis Sr. of Lincoln, corroborated his wife's testimony, as did the defendant's grandfather, Thomas Trauernicht. Also, Davis' daughter Tatje, 11, took the stand and agreed with the previous testimony.

Finally, the defendant, Thomas Davis, took the stand. He said he did not murder his wife, did not aid, abet or procure her murder, and did not leave the home of his grandparents after arriving there after the second time he borrowed their car that night. He said he had made the two trips that night to see his mistress, Mrs. Cheryl Crane.

Mrs. Crane had testified also to that effect earlier in the retrial.

Final testimony was expected Wednesday.

Alimony Total For Petersen Hits $283,500

Omaha (UPI) — A District Court judge Tuesday entered a decree awarding more than a quarter of a million dollars in alimony to the husband.

The decree was entered by Judge Theodore L. Richling on a divorce petition brought by Shirley Woods Petersen against Milton Petersen Jr., both of Omaha.

By the terms of the decree Milton Petersen Jr. was to receive $2,250 per month for 126 months, for a total of $283,500.

Judge Richling said the settlement is fair and equitable, and was agreeable to both parties.

Milton Petersen was represented by attorney William Dunn. Effraim Marks of Omaha represented Shirley Woods Petersen and Renne Edmunds was counsel for oil interests involved.

The Petersens were married in 1943 in Lincoln.

Judge Richling, former U.S. attorney, had awarded more than $50,000 in alimony to the husband in a divorce suit last week.

7 NU Faculty Members Say Rozman Not Alone

Seven University of Nebraska faculty members who say they too were in the Military and Naval Science Building last May released Tuesday a statement asking why the regents "fired one out of many."

Last Saturday, the Board of Regents decided not to rehire Prof. Stephen Rozman for next year because of alleged inappropriate actions during the occupation of the building.

The seven noted the "major reasons" given for the board's decision were Rozman's "not leaving the ROTC building after President Joseph Soshnik had read an announcement declaring that university classes were being disrupted and his not encouraging students to leave the building."

But the seven said "a considerable number of professors" either didn't leave the building or didn't urge students to leave.

The statement was signed by Stephen S. Hilliard, June Levine, and K. Scott Morgan, all assistant English professors; Paul A. Olson, a regents professor of English; Lawrence C. Wolfley, an English instructor; Edward F. Becker, an assistant philosophy professor, and Edgar A. Pearlstein, a physics professor.

Mrs. Levine said the seven were among many faculty members who were in the building and either remained or didn't advise students to leave.

The statement said there were various reasons for the actions of those faculty members who remained, including an understanding that the request was directed only at students and a belief that no disruption was occurring.

It also sighted a variety of reasons for the fact that many professors decided not to urge students to leave: "some of us did not believe we had a contractual, pedagogical or moral obligation to do so; some thought it would only weaken whatever influence faculty members might have with the students; some were not convinced that the students should leave; some thought it would only weaken whatever influence faculty members might have with the students; some were not convinced that the students should leave; some thought that urging students to go might redouble their resolve to stay."

"We do not believe that a faculty member's failing to urge students to leave or remaining in the ROTC building is sufficient grounds for firing him," the statement said.

"The regents do," it continued. "Why then have they fired one out of many?"

Rozman is an untenured assistant professor of political science.

Mrs. Levine said neither she nor three of the others who signed the statement — Becker, Morgan, Wolfley — hold tenure either.

Rozman himself noted earlier in the day, during a news conference, that the attorney for the Spelts Commission had told the university earlier that the special citizens commission had not included in its report the fact that Rozman remained in the building.

He quoted from a statement by attorney Duane Nelson, who said Rozman, "not being a student, was not subject to the sanctions announced by President Soshnik, and may have had some technical justification for not regarding those statements as applying to him."

Rozman's case grew from the commission's report, which said his actions were "highly inappropriate."

UNO Enrollment Increases 7.5%

Omaha (AP) — Enrollment for the spring semester at the College of St. Mary in Omaha is 7.5% more than it was a year ago, school officials said.

Officials said 369 students are enrolled fulltime and 95 parttime. The totals include 17 men, most of whom tranferred from now-closed Pershing College in Beatrice.

Assailant Sought In Series Of Hastings Sexual Assaults

Hastings (UPI) — Adams County authorities are searching for an assailant believed connected with a series of sexual assaults, all but one on elderly women, during recent months in the Hastings area.

Sheriff Robert Anderson made the announcement after releasing information on the rape and robbery of a 75-year-old woman late Jan. 30 or early Jan. 31. The assault, the sheriff said, occurred at the woman's home just southwest of Hastings.

The assailant also took approximately $80 from the home, the sheriff said.

According to Anderson, it was the 10th such incident in the area since April of 1969 and the ninth since last May.

The sheriff said the intruder used the same method of operation in each case and that it can be reasonably assumed the same man was connected with all cases.

He urged residents to notify his office immediately in the event of a future attack. He noted that on two of the previous occasions he had a vehicle in the areas where the crimes occurred but that the victims notified relatives before calling the sheriff's office. This, Anderson said, delayed officers in getting to the scene and gave the attacker time to get out of the area.

The sheriff said information on the most recent incident was withheld while his office checked various leads.

No suspect is in custody, Anderson said.

Hubbard Told He Won't Be Rehired

Another untenured assistant professor at the University of Nebraska has been told he will not be rehired for the next academic year, the professor said Tuesday.

And the professor, Duke Hubbard, said at an afternoon meeting that he is "100% behind Stephen Rozman" in the latter's plans to fight a regents' decision not to hire him.

Rozman, an assistant professor of political science, was told Saturday by the regents that he will not be reappointed.

Hubbard said he had been informed of the action against him by his department chairman, who Hubbard said had told him earlier in the day that the "might not" had been changed to "will not."

Hubbard had been informed by Chairman Dale Hayes of the educational administration department last Dec. 14 that he "might not be reappointed."

During a joint appearance with Rozman, Hubbard said the "regents' sacrificing of Rozman" is "a first step of a wholesale purging of faculty members of this university."

"I don't know how many can remain with a clear conscience a member of the staff if Steve Rozman is not rehired," Hubbard said.

Speaking of his own case, Hubbard said he "will fight this thing all the way," a remark which was greeted by applause from some of the approximately 200 students who attended the gathering.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The cause of effective zoning in Lincoln bit the dust again this week before the City Council. Unfortunately, it is the kind of setback for a community that is difficult for the average citizen to understand and public indignation, therefore, is likely to be nonexistent.

What the council did was to zone for business the northwest corner of 70th and A. The inner or deeper part of the same property was zoned for office building and multiple dwelling uses.

According to current plans, a service station will occupy the business zoned property. Knowing it will incur the wrath of the petroleum industry and fully aware of their answer to the criticism, we still say that this corner of 70th and A needs a service station about as much as we need a hole in the head.

Will the business and commercial operation turn a profit? We would think that it would but this, contrary to what you might think, is not the only basis for good zoning. A profit might well be turned in a lot of areas but they might still be better used for some other purpose.

This development at 70th and A will encourage the owner of the southeast corner of 70th and A to, also, seek a business use. In fact, if he does not do so, his economic savvy might well be questioned and he now has a solid legal basis on which to seek such a change.

The latest change will encourage business zoning all the way to the property line of St. Elizabeth's Hospital down 70th and will pressure for business use the residential character of A St. west from 70th. Then, there is the matter of the east side of 70th south from A.

In the exclusive Lincolnshire development east of 70th and north of South is a savings and loan institution going up right smack at the entrance. This is another zoning abomination that was established a few years ago and is just now bearing fruit.

All of 70th, as we see it, is in the process of becoming another Miracle Mile, although it is the kind of miracle we could well do without. You might say that with those kinds of miracles, who needs the devil?

After considering the immediate area of this latest zoning, one can look elsewhere. There is land all over town now available for business development. What the 70th and A developers will tell you is that this available land is not the land that they want.

That is true. They would not want to build a service station at 70th and Pioneers or perhaps at other locations along 70th that might be available. They might not want to go out to 84th and back up to 56th.

They might not want to put an office building in College View, Havelock, University Place, Bethany or downtown Lincoln. But these, and many others, are the areas that will be damaged as we continue to grant zoning such as that now approved for 70th and A.

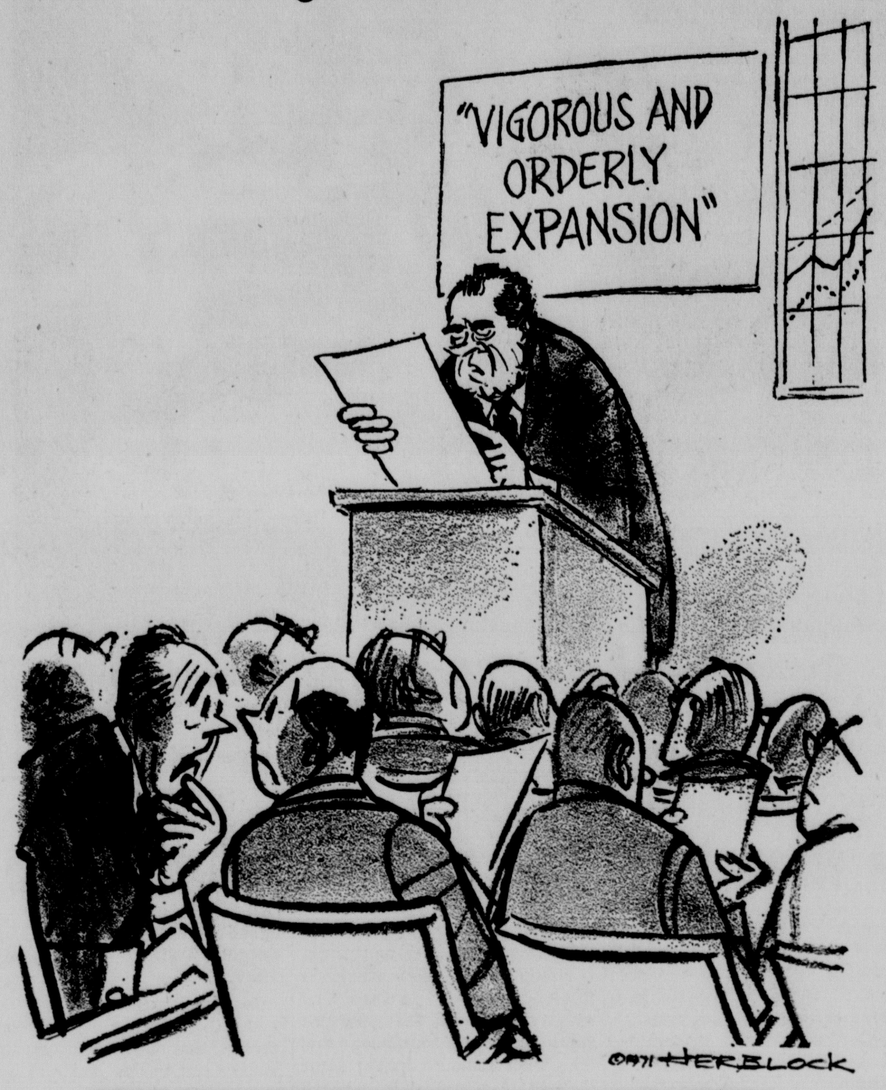
With such zoning, we are contributing to the decay of the business and commercial zoned property now in existence throughout the city. While we build a new tax base at 70th and A, one that could have been provided elsewhere, we are eroding the tax base in other areas.

One councilman said he polled 123 people and 111 of them approved of the 70th and A development. Now that is a real scientific way to run the city; a real display of leadership.

It is such a ridiculous basis on which to act that we are surprised anyone would even admit that they did it. Individual zoning cases are not the kind of things that are supposed to be decided by street corner interviews.

The 70th and A case boils down again to a case of expediency and the sacrifice of long range goals and objectives to the appeal of the dollar sign. It may not be enough to stop it, but we hope that Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf sees fit to veto the change approved by the City Council.

'The Economy? I Thought He Was Talking About The War.'



Deadline Hard To Meet

Before the election last November, The Star recommended defeat of the Constitutional Amendment No. 15, proposing annual sessions of the Legislature lasting 90 legislative days in odd-numbered years and 60 legislative days in even-numbered years. The reason for opposing the amendment was because although we favor annual sessions, we thought that a time limit on the sessions would prove to be impractical.

The amendment, approved by the voters of the state whose senators have embarked on the first of the annual legislative sessions, does have an escape valve: by four-fifths vote of the legislature, the 90-day limit can be wiped out and the session extended.

Even though it has been apparent that the senators were cautiously conserving their legislative days as the session unfolded, we would guess that the general public was not prepared for what happened Monday. The dam broke, flooding the Unicameral with 303 new bills, threatening, in the process, to drown all hopes of a session limited to 90 legislative days.

The avalanche of new proposals boosted the total bill production for the first 20 days to 1,002, breaking all records for the first four weeks of any Unicameral.

"I don't know where they all came from," Speaker W. H. Hasebroock said of the deluge of bills as the Legislature adjourned for the day. The speaker said that lawmakers would "still try our best" to meet the 90-day decline, "but this makes the course a little more difficult."

If the Legislature is to meet the deadline—which would occur sometime in late May according to the current schedule, it would have to kill a mass of legislation or leave it for consideration in the 1972 session—which would be shortened by 30 days unless extended. It appears as if the deadlines were pipe dreams and the Legislature will have to exercise its option of the four-fifths vote—if it can get it—each annual session in order that its work can be completed.

The Rozman Case

In a case as celebrated as that of Prof. Stephen Rozman of the University of Nebraska faculty one might think that there was an endless possibility of speculation and discussion. But we find ourselves in the somewhat peculiar position of not really having much to say about it.

Were the regents right or wrong in deciding against the renewal of Rozman's teaching contract? Our feeling is that the regents had sufficient grounds to refuse to rehire Rozman, although the case might just as easily have gone the other way.

The regents' decision, in other words, was a difficult one to make and little grounds exist for faulting the university's governing board for the path it chose to take. Rozman, in our opinion, did not act in such a way as to be a credit to the faculty in the events of last May which are the foundation for the current discussion.

The case is not one which does damage to the principle of academic freedom nor does it damage the university's tenure system. It does make the point that actions which tend to discourage the normal operations of the university and to interfere with the educational rights of others are not to be condoned.

So far as we are concerned, this is a point that needs to be better understood among faculty and students alike. We are not speaking of all students, but those students who would force their radical and extreme points of view upon others and who would interfere with the rights of others have no legitimate place on campus.

It may not do so, but it would be appropriate if the Rozman case were left to its own merits at this time, without a continuing discussion of the subject on the campus and without action one way or another. We do not expect our view to be shared by all those concerned but that is the beauty of the free speech we still enjoy in this nation.

Lincoln And Stanton

Bennet, Neb.

A gawdy, rawboned country lawyer was engaged as one of the counsels in the famous harvester case of McCormick versus Manning. He set to work with great energy and determination to prepare his case, thinking he would be allowed to plead it when it came to trial. At the last moment, however, the pleading of the case was given to a more brilliant and polished attorney.

The new lawyer remarked rather contemptuously: "What did this long-armed baboon expect to do in this case?" The country lawyer met the challenge with mildness and patience. He showed his interest in the case by delivering into the new lawyer's hands his set of notes and papers that had cost him many nights of difficult and tedious labor. These notes and papers enabled the young, brilliant, good-looking lawyer to win the case.

Not many years later, this same country lawyer, whose birthday anniversary was celebrated February 12, was elected president of the United States. He set to work choosing the men who would assist him in his vast labors. It was then he remembered his brilliant colleague in the harvester case, the one who had treated him with such contempt. Without hesitation, he appointed this man, Edwin M. Stanton, secretary of war.

This was certainly a sacrifice of personal pride for the common good. Few men are found with this quality of leadership and this stamp of nobility.

Removing Liens

Omaha, Neb.

I would like to thank all the individuals and groups of people who were in Room 1009 on Tuesday, January 26, supporting LB 130 which would remove liens from the homes of the old, disabled and blind persons who need public assistance.

I hope that the rest of the senators vote for this, now that it has been passed by the committee.

Next Step

Adams, Neb.

I see where the new state engineer is going to start saving tax money by cutting salaries and laying off employes. I wonder if he weren't appointed to the wrong department? He should be director of institutions, if he thinks the Road Department is over-staffed. He should find out how many white-collar workers have been added to the payroll at the Beatrice State Home, alone.

I am sure this is true in other institutions, too. All available space has been taken for new offices. Patients have been removed from wards and put in already overcrowded wards to make space available for these offices.

Everyone is sending directories to the wards with orders of all kinds, sometimes three and four copies of the same thing, in order to keep these office people busy. Talk about pollution — if these papers were all burned, there would be plenty of it.

The state engineer's job carries more responsibilities than most of the others. If he can reduce the staff there and maintain good highways, then by all means his next step should be director of institutions.

HOPEFUL

Income Source

Lincoln, Neb.

Although individual senators can no longer introduce legislative bills, it is still possible to introduce a "committee bill."

Let's get letters into the individual senators, and particularly those on the revenue committee, concerning the abolishing of all real or personal property taxes and substitution of the sales and income taxes as the sole basis for getting income for the general fund.

I, for one, want the maximum benefit of the money collected for taxes at the state, county and local levels of state government. There must be others. But if we don't let our opinions be known to the Legislature, the revenue statutes appear to be basically unaffected by the 650 bills now in the hopper and any change in the manner of getting general fund income appears quite unlikely.

Our Congressman, Charles Thone, should be commended on his stand to possibly not introduce legislation in the House to allow city officials to sell old City Hall.

Here is an opportunity for Lincoln citizens to support their congressman on his stand and help him in seeking some way to preserve City Hall.

Lincoln can well afford to support a reception place, lounge and tourist information center for her out-of-town guests. The old City Hall is ideally located for this purpose.

Johnson-Nixon Plot Theory 'Poppycock'

WASHINGTON — Former Texas Gov. John Connally's arrival here to take over the Treasury Department has prompted all sorts of spooky notions about presumed deals between President Nixon and ex-President Lyndon Johnson.

One of the wildest theories holds that the appointment of Johnson's former protege is President Nixon's advance payment in return for a pledge from Johnson of support in the 1972 Presidential campaign.

That is pure poppycock. It is inconceivable that Johnson, for any reason, would endorse a Republican President who has been systematically dismantling the major Great Society programs that Johnson labored to leave as his legacy to history. And while it is possible the former President may not be ecstatic about the more dovish Democratic Presidential hopefuls, he cannot be pleased that Nixon as Commander-in-Chief has regularly tried to distract from his own difficulties in Southeast Asia by passing the buck backwards several years to the Johnson era.

Nor is any of the other speculation — implying that Connally is joining the Cabinet as a secret agent of Lyndon Johnson — true in any respect. Those skeptics who have never trusted Johnson, or who dislike Texans per se, will find this hard to believe, but the truth is the precise opposite.

President Nixon selected Connally for his own reasons, and Connally accepted for his own reasons. Johnson was neither informed nor consulted in advance by either the President or by Connally.

In fact, Johnson privately disapproved of the move when he finally learned about it. Publicly he has said nothing, but close friends know that both he and Connally have chaffed under the rumors that this is all a Johnson plot.

Speculation linking Johnson and Connally is apparently inevitable because the two are longtime friends and allies. Yet Connally has been independent of Johnson's dominance for nearly a decade; their teacher-protege relationship vanished when Connally successfully ran for Governor in 1962 over then Vice President Johnson's objections.

During the last phase of the Johnson Administration, there were long stretches when these two proud men did not even communicate. They are loyal to each other publicly and privately, but neither can command the other.

Many of Connally's close friends, in fact, see his acceptance of the touchy post in a GOP Administration as his way of publicly asserting his political independence. They contend that Connally did not consult with Johnson before deciding whether to come to Washington because he knew perfectly well Johnson would be opposed to it.

As it was, Connally did not give his former mentor a chance to express his views. He told Johnson the news in a telephone call from the White House with the President listening on the extension only minutes before the public announcement.

It is unlikely that Johnson would have tried very hard to stop Connally, because he knows the tribulations of the Presidency and has been scrupulous about not appearing to interfere with Nixon's running of the country. Johnson did express to friends afterwards his deep concern that Connally may become Nixon's scapegoat if the economy does not readjust.

Dissident Scientists Pose Threat To Soviets; Nobody Will Be Left To Run The Computers

PARIS—The real weakness of Soviet society is not disaffection of elements among minority groups or dissidence of intellectuals and artists like Solzhenitsyn and Rostropovich. The Soviet system has shown it can curb these by steady disapproval and spasmodic repression without seriously damaging the workings of the state or interfering with foreign policy.

The real weakness—so dangerous that it might even be termed a cancer—is the association of leading Soviet scientists and technicians with the artistic and cultural dissidents. For although the U.S.S.R. can keep up its superpower status while interfering with intellectual freedom in the arts, it cannot maintain that status indefinitely if muffled scientists refuse to help the state in its global power race.

From earliest days the U.S.S.R. has been schizophrenic on science. Lenin boasted: "one after another we shall win over all the Russian and European Archimedes and then the world will have to change, whether it wants to or not." Nevertheless Stalinism encouraged fake science such as Lysenko's phony genetics.

When destalinization began under Khruschev, there was a belief in the Soviet intellectual community that the arts and sciences were bound to benefit. Notwithstanding, Solzhenitsyn saw both his rise and his initial fall under Khrushchev and in the ensuing Brezhnev period, Zhores Medvedev, the leading anti-Lysenkoist, has been intermittently bullied.

Apart from Medvedev, three foremost Soviet scientists have spoken out favoring freedom of thought. These are Andrei Sakharov, one of the principal nuclear scientists, Piotr Kapitsa, the best-known physicist, and the late Lev Landau, another talented physicist.

The quintessential point made by these men and others who share their views is that science cannot be trammeled by fixed ideological bonds. Thus, nine years ago, Kapitsa wrote that, had Soviet scientists obeyed Marxist philosophers, they would have rejected cybernetics and excluded Russia from the space race.

In a challenging essay, Prof. Lewis S. Feuer of the University of Toronto recalls that Landau (who died three years ago) had even been accused by the Stalin regime of being a German spy — although he was a Jew. Before he died, some time after an automobile accident, he had taken the lead in attacking Soviet propaganda conceptions "of the nature of the scientist's work."

According to Feuer, Kapitsa contends there are some 400,000 members ot the Soviet scientific community and among them Sakharov's voice has immense significance. Sakharov rejects the class struggle as a method of achieving social progress. This led him to the ultimate and highly heretical conclusion that only a liberal-democratic reform including a multiparty system could insure freedom in Russia.

"There are no grounds for asserting as is often done in the dogmatic vein that the capitalist mode of production leads the economy into a blind alley," Sakharov wrote, "or that it is obviously inferior to the socialist mode in labor productivity."

The crucial importance of these heretical thoughts in the scientific community is that the Soviet state ultimately relies on the cooperation of scientists in a way that it need not depend on great writers, painters or musicians.

It is one thing to prevent Solzhenitsyn from traveling, to ban performances abroad by Rostropvich or to incarcerate authors in insane asylums. All these — even the last — are old Russian habits only improved upon by the Bolshevik regime. Latter-day czars had locked up authors and professors for being "mentally unbalanced."

It is despicable that inspirational talents have been reined in merely because they were original or sought freedom. It is crippling to a great state when it deliberately hampers scientists upon whose work its national future depends.

Last July, after visiting the U.S.S.R., I concluded that Moscow operated on the basis of a twinned economy, one linked to computers and producing space miracles, the other linked to the old-fashioned abacus and bumbling along. If scientific dissidence continues to spread, ultimately Russia will fall back in the power race because nobody will be left to run the computers.

Army Rebellion Leads To Open Revolt

WASHINGTON — Not since the Civil War has the Army been so torn by rebellion. The crisis has all but overwhelmed General William Westmoreland, the harassed Army chief, who is attempting to restore discipline with more beer, longer hair and old slogans.

We have spent weeks talking to soldiers, from privates to generals, at bases at home and overseas. At least a third of the enlisted men are in some states of rebellion, we would estimate, from the mild draftees who would consider the Army a ridiculous waste of time to the soldier editors of "underground" newspapers, who write openly and often of revolution.

In Vietnam, officers and noncoms no longer simply issue orders. Blind obedience has gone the route of the horse cavalry. The young draftees who bear the brunt of the fighting now want to know the reasons for an order. If the reply is inadequate, the order may be ignored.

An officer who tries to enforce an unpopular order may find himself "fragged" — on the receiving end of a hot grenade. The fighting effectiveness of some units has been shattered by the threat that enlisted men may slip up in the shadows and toss a live grenade into officers' quarters. Bomb threats have forced officers to evacuate homes, offices, hospitals.

"The real miracle," one colonel, a combat officer, told us, "is that we haven't had an open revolt."

On many Army posts, long hair, hippie beads and peace medallions have become part of the uniform. At Ft. Hood, Tex., Ft. Lewis, Wash., and other bases across the country, GI coffeehouses offer dissident soldiers sympathetic gathering places.

Activist soldiers have filed lawsuits against their commanding officers. Enlisted men have formed division councils, which exclude all noncoms above buck sergeants. The councils make demands upon the division commanders.

The only soldiers left untouched by the spirit of revolt are the "lifers," the 20 year sergeants and old-line officers, whose instinctive reaction to the rebellious kids is to put them on KP, take their stripes away and slap them in the stockades.

But the kids refuse to accept this kind of treatment. They go AWOL; they desert. Others are too abject, too numb to dissent. They turn to booze, babes and drugs and escape.

Particularly drugs. An extraordinary number smoke pot, and a great many shoot heroin. The Army probably has more drug addicts than it has paratroopers. Ft. Hood in Texas has such a marijuana problem that it has been nicknamed Ft. Head. And Ft. Bragg in North Carolina is the second biggest heroin market in the country, right after New York City.

Drug abuse often goes hand in hand with the Army's racial problems. In Korea, we learned that black and white GI's, hopped up on drugs and booze, often meet and fight in the shantytowns outside military camps. Groups of blacks, fired up on drugs, lie in wait in the shantytowns for white soldiers.

At European bases, racial tension is threatening to break into full-scale rioting. On a remote post in eastern Bavaria last year, for example, blacks demonstrating against discrimination were rebuffed by their commanding officer, Brig. Gen. Marshall Garth. Later a fragmentation grenade exploded in a mess hall, and ten men were wounded. A black noncom, James Earl Hobson, twice decorated with bronze stars in Vietnam, was charged with attempted murder.

In another incident at McNair barracks in West Berlin, whites and blacks ripped into each other with rocks, pipes and wooden clubs. Five men were arrested, some 25 suffered injuries. Elsewhere in Europe, black servicemen have held demonstrations, and whites have countered with Ku Klux Klan type rallies.

☆ ☆ ☆

The report of a GI, assigned to the 178th Maintenance Company in Vietnam, is all too typical: "Whites sleep with loaded weapons, and Negroes prowl the company carrying pistols and knives," he swore. "When the commanding officer was informed of this, he did absolutely nothing except talk to the company and say his hands were tied. We don't want to guard our backs or live in fear that our safety will be threatened by someone wearing the same uniform as we do. But the men in this company are scared, and scared men are not rational."

In a future column, we will report how General Westmoreland is trying to quiet the turmoil in the Army with platitudes and public relations.

REAP Details Studied

County and state farm officials began ironing out the details of local Rural Environmental Assistance Programs (REAP) Tuesday.

The manual for use in the county offices clearly indicates the change in emphasis from the old Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP).

Most of the practices that have been eliminated from the new REAP program were temporary in nature or brought an immediate cash return to the landowner.

Long term efforts to improve the environment are being pushed with financial assistance generally limited to the 50% level.

Exceptions include three areas that are funded at up to the 80% cost share level and a maximum of any five of eight other practices that the county officials can justify to the state as needing the 80% cost sharing level, officials said.

Early indications are that the justification is going to have to be good to get approval at the state level. The state program will be reviewed by federal officials before it is approved.

The three automatically approved areas cover planting of trees and shrubs and improving the wildlife habitat.

The optional areas cover such recommended conservation efforts as sod waterways, erosion control dams, water runoff control structures, lagoons for animal wastes and terraces of a permanent nature.

The entire 45-page manual stresses such terms as, reduce the pollution of water or land, improve the habitat for wildlife, replenish ground water supply and prevent or reduce air pollution.

Farmers interested in participating in the REAP program should contact their county ASCS office as soon as possible so the local committee can submit their requests to the state promptly, officials reported.

Creighton U. Students Plan War Protest

Omaha (UPI) — A number of Creighton University students plan to protest Wednesday President Nixon's decision supporting the South Vietnamese invasion of Laos and an extension of U.S. miltiary involvement in Indochina.

Craig Cornish, a senior majoring in political science, said the students will march from the Creighton campus to the federal building in downtown Omaha starting at 2 p.m.

He said the march will be in coordination with the national effort to protest the recent "escalation" of the Indochina war.

The marchers plan to deliver a letter to the office of Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb.

The letter, Cornish said, will express "the students' deplorance of the President's Indochina policy."

'Pollution' Worse

Frankfurt (AP) — A poll of 2,000 West Germans revealed 39 per cent felt air pollution more harmful than smoking cigarettes.

Review Of Councilman's Duties And Pay Planned

The City Charter Revision Committee Tuesday decided to undertake a comprehensive study of the duties and activities of the City Council as well as the compensation council members should receive.

The action came at the end of a discussion in which council members said they spend up to 20 hours per week on council activities.

"Being a council member takes an unbelievable amount of time," commented Council Chairman Ervin Peterson, who has announced plans not to seek re-election this spring.

No Gripes About Time

Speaking freely about the different meetings they attend to keep abreast of matters involving the city, the six council members present said they had no gripes about the amount of time they spend on council business.

One of the matters of concern to members of the City Charter Revision Committee is whether the council is spending more time than needed, such as getting into the administrative area by sitting on various boards.

Some committee members felt that there needs to be a clarification of council duties.

Dr. Kenneth Holland, a committee member, pointed out that the council can hire staff members to do research for the council and to attend and report back on various meetings.

Saving Questioned

Ervin Peterson wondered how much time would be saved even if the council did not sit in on meetings, since council members would then have to study reports in order to be well informed.

Councilman Dick Hartsock commented that the council is even criticized for lack of communication with other governmental units.

"More meetings seem to be needed," Hartsock remarked.

Both Hartsock and Pete Peterson noted that the time spent on council affairs has resulted in their earning less money in their businesses.

More Money Sought

Council members were in agreement that they should be paid more than the $20 per council meeting they now receive.

Councilman Bill Davidson, who is retiring from the council this year to run for mayor, said he feels the present compensation "precludes a lot of younger people and businessmen in small businesses from running."

"What happens is that you get down to a narrow group who can afford to serve," Davidson said.

Several council members said they would like to see a pay hike placed on the 1972 spring ballot, feeling that the city election this spring is too near to adequately inform the public on the need for an increase.

Two previous attempts to increase the compensation failed to win public approval at the polls.

CAR PLUNGES INTO RAVINE

Mrs. Rhea J. Buss, 35, of 6201 Fremont and her son Jeff, 9, were treated for minor injuries Tuesday afternoon following a two-car collision at 68th and Fremont which plunged the Buss vehicle into a shallow ravine. Police Officer Lyle Roberts said the accident occurred when the car Mrs. Buss was driving was struck from the rear by a pickup truck driven by Leonard Wilhelm, 36, of Eagle. Roberts said Mrs. Buss was attempting to turn onto 68th when the mishap occurred. (Star Photo.)

UPS Moves Toward Extension Of Service

United Parcel Service (UPS) moved a step closer Tuesday in its five-year effort to extend its authority to a nine-state region including Lincoln.

Chamber of Commerce President Harry Seward said "It appears that Lincoln could receive UPS service to 90% of the company's territory by late this summer."

This means, he said, that Lincoln will have UPS service available to 32 central, eastern and southeastern states. However, Lincoln will not have UPS service to points in a 3½-state region that includes Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and western Missouri.

Originally, UPS was seeking to add a nine-state area to their system but when small parcel carriers in Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and southern Nebraska protested, UPS amended their application to restrict the company from operating between most points served by protesting carriers.

"Naturally we are disappointed that Lincoln will not have service to and from points in this restricted region," Seward said, "but if UPS had not amended their original application Lincoln's access to the UPS system would probably have been delayed by at least two years."

Chamber representatives at Interstate Commerce Commission hearings in Dallas last week were assured by UPS that as soon as the ICC grants authority in this case, the company will apply for authority within the restricted 3½-state region.

Fire Strikes House Here

A fire Tuesday afternoon caused a great deal of damage to the interior and exterior of a house at 1834 So. 10th, but no official estimate of damage was immediately available.

Curt Nielsen, 19, the sole occupant of the house owned by Otis Glebe of 746 Rose, said that he had been gone from the house for approximately three hours prior to the start of the fire.

Fire officials said the cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

Nielsen said that the only personal items he had in the house were some clothes and a few books.

The fire was reported to the fire department at approximately 4 p.m., after Tina Scott, 10, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Scott, 1500 So. 11th, noticed the fire and notified neighbors who called the fire department.

Smith Will Head State Rural Youth

Grand Island (AP)—Darrel Smith of Stuart has been elected president of the Nebraska Rural Youth Organization.

At its meeting here, the organization named Jo Ann Fast of Beatrice vice president. Also elected were Mary Ellen Weiss of Omaha, secretary; Kay Furby of Albion, treasurer, and Sherry Jackson of Cozad, news reporter.

Humane Society Re-Elects Evans

Harold Evans was re-elected president of the Humane Society's board of directors at the annual meeting Tuesday.

Also re-elected were Richard Williams, vice president and legal counsel; James Lewis, second vice president; Mrs. John Dean, secretary, and Mrs. Standley Haight, treasurer.

Receipt of a gift of 300 shares of stock in Beatrice Foods was also revealed at the joint meeting of directors and trustees.

To Be Held In Trust

The gift, presented by Mrs. Jean Kinder and her daughter, Mrs. William Porter, will be held in trust, the money from disposition of the stock to be used for the expansion and improvement of facilities at the Humane Shelter.

Mrs. Kinder, an honorary life member of the Humane Society, has long been active in the work of the group.

In other business, Mrs. Jay Aldrup, Mrs. Frank Cole, Robert Gibson, Mrs. Tom Jones and Dr. Emil Kasik were newly elected to the board of trustees. Holdover trustees elected for another three years were Dr. Edward Ackerman, John Boomer, Mrs. John Dean, Dr. Carl Norden and Mrs. Robert Sherwood.

7,310 Complaints

Bernie Patton, head of the Humane Shelter, reported that his office fielded a total of 7,310 complaints on dogs and 1,534 on cats with eight cases filed with the city attorney's office during the year.

Patton also said that homes were found for 396 cats and 1,190 dogs. Animals disposed of for various reasons totalled 7,937.

"We are becoming more of a handling place for surplus animals," he said, adding that there are also some pigs, domestic fowl, a goat and a pony at the shelter.

"We may need a horse shelter in our building program in the future," Patton commented.

'Word Processing Center' Response Is Unenthusiastic

A number of Lincoln school board members balked Tuesday at word that administrative officials have been considering the possibility of installing a "word processing center" in the district's administration building.

School Supt. John Prasch brought to the board a preliminary report on the plans, which would have to get a go-ahead from board of education members.

Prasch said the processing center could handle all dictation via a phone system, and then print letters, memos and such items with "power typewriters."

Saving Expected

He indicated it would also serve other printing functions, while saving costs in clerical help.

Most dictation is now accomplished by direct communication with secretaries, Prasch said.

Any decision on the matter, he indicated, would have to take into account savings in time of clerical personnel as opposed to the cost of purchase or lease of equipment.

Such a system is working successfully in a few Lincoln businesses, he said.

Worth Doubted

But board members said they had doubts about the value of such a central system.

A number of them said they would prefer to purchase additional dictation machines for administrators. Only five of about 50 to 60 potential users of such machines now have them, Prasch said.

In other matters, the board gave approval to Lincoln High School plans to construct a mall between the school and the "oval," common name for the LHS athletic field.

Principal William Bogar said the mall would be constructed in connection with the school's centennial celebration this spring.

County Hospital Employes Under Retirement Act

Employes of county community hospitals are eligible for inclusion in the county employes' retirement act, the State Justice Department held Tuesday.

The opinion was prepared for Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H. Meyer by Asst. Atty. Gen. Ralph Gillan at the request of Harlan County Atty. Robert McKelvie.

McKelvie had asked if the employes are included under the state's county employes' retirement act and Meyer's opinion reduced the question to whether a county community hospital is a part of county government.

"We believe that it is clear from the statutes that the operation of such a hospital is a function of county government," wrote Gillan, "and its employes therefore are county employes."

Preliminary AFT Organizational Meet Set At NU

A preliminary organizational meeting for a University of Nebraska chapter of the American Federation of Teachers will be held Wednesday night on the NU campus.

Four NU faculty members who said they constitute the "preliminary organizing committee" announced plans for the meeting, which they said will start at 7 p.m. in the Nebraska Union.

One of the four, Regents Prof. of English Paul Olson, had said earlier that efforts were under way to organize the AFT chapter.

The announcement was also signed by Linda Pratt of the English department and Nelson Potter and Ed Becker of the philosophy department.

Platte Co. Seat Plans Exon Day

Columbus (UPI) — March 5 will be Exon Day in Columbus.

A spokesman for the group making arrangements for the day said the visit will be in keeping with the governor's declared policy of "walking up and down the streets of Nebraska" to carry out the "listening approach" to government which Exon emphasized during his campaign.

The governor wil be accompanied by his wife, Patricia. Patricia.

Platte County gave Exon a plurality second only to Douglas County in last fall's election.

Malcolm X College President To Speak At Nebraska Union

Dr. Charles G. Hurst Jr., president of Malcolm X College, will speak at the University of Nebraska Union Wednesday as a part of the student-sponsored Talks and Topics Series.

The program is scheduled for 3:30 p.m. in the Union Ballroom.

Hurst views himself as a classic product of the Negro dilemma. He grew up in a ghetto in Springfield, Mass., was a school dropout at age 15 and married and a father two years later.

He surmounted difficulties and completed his education through a route he feels must be the black community's salvation. He is attempting to bring the opportunities of education to black youth at Malcolm X College.

CHARLES G. HURST JR.

Made It Hard Way

Hurst came to Malcolm X as president following the death of his eldest son, who was killed in Vietnam. Since his arrival enrollment has tripled, with many of the newer students being men in their 20s and 30s.

Exemptions Reduce Taxable Income

(EDITOR'S NOTE: To avoid paying more taxes than you owe, you can and should claim all the exemptions available for yourself, your wife and your children. This is the third of five articles in a series on how to make out your 1970 federal income tax return as painlessly as possible.

By NORMAN KEMPSTER

Washington (UPI) — Every taxpayer, regardless of his income, is entitled to at least one personal exemption. To avoid paying more taxes than you owe, be sure to claim all of your exemptions.

Each exemption is worth $625. That's $25 more than last year. Since you can claim one automatically for yourself, you can reduce your taxable income by at least $625. But you may be able to claim other exemptions as well.

The exemption was increased by the tax reform act passed by Congress in late 1969. Technically, it was boosted to $650 for income tax withholding purposes last July 1 but in practice, the exemption averages out to $625 for 1970 — the year covered by the tax return that must be filed before April 15.

The exemption for 1971 will be $650. It is scheduled to increase to $700 in 1972 and $750 in 1973 and thereafter.

First Increases

The increases were the first change in the exemption in 22 years.

After counting yourself as your first exemption, you usually can count your wife as a second unless she files a separate return. The same goes for each of your dependent children. (We'll explain in a moment what constitutes a "dependent" for tax purposes). Thus, a taxpayer with a wife and two dependent children can take four exemptions — one per person — and reduce his taxable income by $2,500.

If you earned $9,000 during 1970, for example, your four exemptions would reduce your taxable income to 6,500.

You get another exemption if you were blind on the last day of 1970 and still another if you were 65 or over. If you were both blind and 65, you can claim all three. The same rules apply to your spouse, but not to other dependents. A married couple, blind and over 65, could claim six exemptions — totaling $3,750.

Babies born at any time in 1970 — even on the last day of the year — count as exemptions for the entire year. If a dependent died during the year — even on the first day — the exemption still holds.

Who is a dependent?

Five Tests

Basically, there are five tests that must be met before a person can qualify as a dependent. He:

—Must be a U.S. citizen or resident or a resident of Canada, Mexico, Panama or the Canal Zone for some part of 1970. If an alien child was living with you all of last year, you may count him as a dependent.

—Must be closely related to you or have been living with you as a member of your household all last year.

—Must have a gross income of less than $625 last year. But if your child was under 19 at year end or was a full-time student during five months of the year, he counts as a dependent even though he earned $625 or more — so long as the other dependency tests are met.

A child who had gross income of 1,700 or more must file his own tax return. He can claim himself as an exemption on his return at the same time you claim him as a dependent on yours. In short, he's worth a total of $1,250 in exemptions — $625 for himself and $625 for you — so long as the other dependency tests are met.

Student Defined

The law defines a student as anyone who studies full time at a qualifying educational institution for some part of at least five months during the year or who is enrolled in a full time on-the-farm training course. He:

—must not file a joint return with his or her spouse.

—must receive more than half his total support from you. Total support includes amounts expended from both taxable and nontaxable income as well as the value of goods and services furnished.

Even if you were only one of the several persons furnishing support for another, you may be able to claim him as an exemption.

May Claim

For instance, if you and two brothers were supporting your aged father last year, each paying one-third of the cost, you may claim him as an exemption if:

—together, you and your brothers provided more than half of your father's total support.

—and one of you would have been entitled to claim him as an exemption, if the one alone had furnished over half his support.

—you who are claiming him paid over 10% of his support last year and your brothers declare in writing that they won't claim your father as an exemption for 1970. These declarations must be filed with your return when you claim the exemption.

Joint Exemptions

In the case of joint exemptions, it is usually wise for the taxpayer with the highest income to claim the exemption. Federal income tax rates increase as your income rises.

Thus for a married taxpayer filing a joint return with taxable income after deductions and other exemptions of $12,500, an extra $625 exemption would mean a saving of $157 counting the surtax. But for a married taxpayer filing a joint return with taxable income of $8,500, an extra $625 exemption would mean a saving of only $137.

Your local Internal Revenue Service office has Form 2120 on which you can make a "multiple support" declaration. The office also will answer questions about your specific multiple exemption situation.

Funding Gained For State Ombudsman

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Sen. Loran Schmit of David City Tuesday finally gained funding to establish a state ombudsman.

The Legislature approved, on a 35-11 vote, Schmit's proposal that the state accept a $72,000 grant from the federal government to fund the office of public counsel for about a year and a half.

Schmit's ombudsman proposal was enacted by the 1969 Legislature, but never funded.

But, if it performs its assignment of providing citizens with better access to state government, Schmit said, he believes the federal government may extend its grant or the Legislature would be willing to continue the program with state financing.

What Schmit hopes to accomplish through the new office, he said, is to provide any citizen with "the same right of redress before state government" which is now available to a member of the Legislature.

Sen. C. W. Holmquist of Oakland attempted to scuttle the federal grant proposal, arguing that the ombudsman plan could create "a minor revolution" in the state.

"People may be traveling all The Legislative Council executive board during the interim prior to the 1971 session received an offer of federal funding, but had been sharply divided over the issue.

Only the Legislature itself was empowered to finally accept or reject the grant.

Schmit said he will join opponents of the ombudsman plan in voting to abolish the program after federal funding expires if the office has proved itself unnecessary.

over the state looking for citizens who are dissatisfied," Holmquist said, thus provoking a flood of complaints about the operation of state government.

Author of Repeal Bill

Citizen inquiries should properly be handled by their state senator, Holmquist said. The Oakland lawmaker is the sponsor of a bill which would repeal the 1969 ombudsman act.

Several senators said they would like to fund the program on a trial basis.

"Let's see if it will work," Sen. Sam Klaver of Omaha said.

"If it doesn't work, then we can kick the program out," Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha agreed.

Sen. William Swanson of Lincoln, who opposed the federal grant as a member of the executive board, said he has been convinced by constituents to change his mind and support Schmit's motion.

Serve as Complement

Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly said the ombudsman would actually serve as "a complement to legislative services."

Sen. Rudolf Kokes of Ord joined with Holmquist in warning that the state may be left with additional expenditures if the federal grant is not renewed in 1972.

"They may leave it sitting in our laps," Kokes said.

Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha suggested that lawmakers should not accept any federal grants if they are so "tainted and wicked."

More Problems

Chambers said his constituents have more problems than he can "begin to handle" in their behalf. "I am incapable of doing alone what needs to be done for all the people of my district," he said.

Citizen complaints and inquiries could be directed to the ombudsman, who would, in effect, serve as the public's counsel in state government.

The vote on Schmit's motion to accept the grant:

Nixon Urged To Alter Farm Policy

By United Press International

With an eye to the 1972 elections, Nebraska's predominantly rural oriented Legislature warned President Nixon Tuesday to straighten out the farm problem or face political disaster in the Midwest farm belt next year.

On a 43-0 vote, the Unicameral adopted a resolution urging Nixon to set farm prices at 90% of parity (based on the 1910-14 formula) and to cast aside his proposal for the merging of the Agriculture Department into his proposed new cabinet level Department of Human Resources.

The resolution noted that Nixon's popularity in the rural Midwest was a prime factor in his 1968 election to the presidency. But the resolution said "it does not necessarily mean that we will forever be that way."

Diminishing Interest

State Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, sponsor of the resolution, said there has been a "gradual diminishing" of federal government interest in agriculture under both the Nixon and Johnson administrations because of the decreasing political clout of rural America.

But, the Scottsbluff lawmaker said, Nixon would not have achieved his slim margin of victory in 1968 if it had not been for the support of the farmers.

"The Midwest farmers were responsible for electing Nixon and unless he reverses himself as he did on the budget he's sunk," Carpenter said.

Carpenter was joined by several other registered Republicans, as well as most Democrats, in the nominally non-partisan Unicameral, in expressing their displeasure with the Nixon farm program.

"I happen to be a lifelong Republican, but I think the Nixon administration has already dug its grave in the farm belt," said State Sen. Herb Nore of Genoa.

Better Prices Needed

"There is no question about it, agriculture is sick and farmers must get better prices or they will no longer be able to feed the nation, let alone the whole world," said State Sen. Rudolf C. Kokes of Ord, a registered Democrat.

The resolution was originally worded so that Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin was referred to as a "hatchet man" employed by Nixon to destroy agriculture.

But at the urging of several lawmakers who said strong language would only anger the administration instead of helping to solve the problem, the wording was deleted.

Copies of the resolution will be sent to Nixon, Hardin and Nebraska's all-Republican congressional delegation.

Marriage License Measure Approved On Final Reading

By The Associated Press

Nebraska's Legislature gave 45-1 approved on final reading Tuesday to a bill which permits Nebraskans to obtain their marriage license in one county and be married in another county.

Previously the license had to be obtained in the county in which the marriage takes place.

The change is contained in LB42, sponsored chiefly by Sen. Leslie A. Stull of Alliance. The only negative vote was cast by Sen. Herbert Nore of Genoa.

The approved measure goes next to the governor for approval and will become law three months after adjournment of the current session.

Two other bills with Sen. Stull as chief sponsor also were passed on final reading:

LB41—Providing that county judges will issue a certificate to be filed with the register of deeds showing names of persons acquiring interest in real estate as the result of a final decree in estate or guardianship proceedings. (47-0).

LB47—Clarifying and harmonizing times for notice of publication in certain district court civil procedures. (47-1).

Legislators Vote To Accept Funds For Beatrice Pool

The Legislature Tuesday adopted 45-0 a resolution authorizing the Department of Institutions to accept a gift of money for a swimming pool at the Beatrice State Home.

Sen. Fred Carstens of Beatrice, the sponsor, said that Nebraska Jaycees in cooperation with the Retarded Children Association has raised $18,000, enough to provide a long-sought pool at the Beatrice home.

The resolution authorizes the director of public institutions to accept the gift for the state.

POSTCARD by Stan Kaplan

The everlasting raindrops kept falling on my head (whenever I put my head out the window). So when night fell, I hired a driver named George and went out to Peitou.

Peitou is a hot springs resort. A clutch of 80 hotels — big ones to small, lantern-lit inns — hang on hillsides over a steep canyon.

In five years of R and R leave from Vietnam, American soldiers spent $47 million in Taiwan. Most of it went into the deep-dish baths and the pretty bath girls of Peitou.

☆ ☆ ☆

George turned out to be a sporty fellow. He assured me he spoke perfect English. A phrase he'd learned perfectly all right: "I speak perfect English, sir."

After that, George was lost. He couldn't understand me. I couldn't understand him. He had a couple of words of English and a few of Japanese.

☆ ☆ ☆

There was a mellow glow of soft lights through misting rain in Peitou.

George drove me to the Insular Hotel. He said in Japanese it was "daijobu" — very good.

He began showing me through rooms. A floor mama-san and a gaggle of giggling room girls followed us. They kept up a chattery thing with George.

What George was looking for I never found out.

He rejected a room with a table set for four, a bed and a sunken bathtub.

☆ ☆ ☆

I said: "Listen George, I don't want to rent a room. I want to case a couple of places. Where's the bar?"

George said: "Very nice. Peitou takushan (plenty) girl-san."

You can believe it. At every floor we picked up another floor mama-san and her horde of room girls. I suppose somebody stayed on duty to sweep the rooms. But most of them followed the parade.

☆ ☆ ☆

At the top floor, George found what he wanted. It was enormous room, sliding windows open to a rainy view over the canyon.

There was a huge bed, comforted by a scarlet spread on which a golden dragon was about to breathe fire.

There was a sunken bath. Big enough for a platoon.

There were three tables! Each one set for 10 persons!

George beamed at me. The mama-sans beamed. The room girls giggled.

☆ ☆ ☆

I said: "George, you've got to be some kind of nut. What do I wan with this banquet hall?"

I said: "George, I want to see the Literary Inn."

The Literary Inn is the most famous place in Peitou. It's picture appeared in Life — two bath girls sudsing down a GI.

Correspondents in The Tokyo Foreign Press Club told me about it. Apparently from the name, traveling newsmen get the idea it's some kind of hot bath press club.

George was stumped. He said: "Litelelly Inn?" He jabbered at the mama-sans. The mama-sans yelled back at him. The room girls giggled. They straightened the chopsticks for 30 persons on the three tables.

I picked up the phone and handed it to George. He talked to the desk. He gave me the phone. The man said: "He wants to know if you want dinner."

I said: "Am I supposed to guess who's coming to this dinner?"

☆ ☆ ☆

I hauled George downstairs. The clerk said that would be $9. I had rented a room. George had rented the room for me, that big-hearted fellow.

I paid the $9. George chattered all the way back to town.

About what? I never found out.

Secretaries To Sponsor Institute

Plans already are underway for the 17th annual Secretarial Institute which will be held Saturday, March 6, at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education. The all-day conference will be open to secretaries from throughout Nebraska, and the Cornhusker Chapter of the National Secretaries Association is sponsoring the event, with Miss Virginia Dolan chairman of the seven-member planning committee.

Highlights of the Institute will include a workshop which will explain the use of new office equipment, a style show, and guest speakers, including Dr. Vance Rogers from Nebraska Wesleyan University; the Rev. Robert W. Jeambey of the Nebraska Council of Churches, and Dr. Randall T Klemme of Northern Natural Gas in Omaha.

Engagement

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Daniel M. Tuzzolino of Omaha, of the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Ann, to Galen Robert Goeden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil C. Goeden of Yankton, S.D.

The wedding will take place on Saturday, June 12, and the ceremony and the Nuptial Mass will be solemnized at 1 o'clock in the afternoon at St. Bernard's Church in Omaha.

Miss Tuzzolino is a senior in the University of Nebraska School of Nursing.

Mr. Goeden attended the University of South Dakota, and will be graduated in June from the University of Nebraska where he is majoring in zoology. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

The News In Suburbia

The three astronauts on Apollo 14 splashed down safely yesterday, and Americans are breathing another sigh of relief and giving thanks for the safe return of the moon walkers. We all look forward to the analysis of their findings and a greater understanding of the heretofore unknown.

But, the astronauts are not the only ones travelling these days. Some of our suburban neighbors are making landings in spots closer to home.

Mr. and Mrs. Rick Kubler, for instance, left their Clifford Place home on Tuesday, Feb. 2 for a combined business and pleasure trip to New Orleans, La. The trip in itself was an honor to Mr. Kubler in recognition of his appointment to the Chairman's Council by Mutual of Omaha Insurance Co. The couple spent five fun-filled days attending the Council meeting in New Orleans. Among the highlights of their trip were the lovely hotel at which they stayed in the French Quarter of the city, and being entertained by Pete Fountain one evening and Dick Jensen the next. The wives of the 101 men appointed to the Chairman's Council from all over the U.S. spent one day touring the plantations and were served luncheon at one of the plantation mansions. The Kublers returned to Lincoln on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster Woodruff of Bishop Heights had a sports-filled weekend agenda. They left their home one Saturday late in January, for the short drive to Omaha. There they attended the exciting Midlands International Indoor Championship Tennis tournament which featured some of the top tennis names from all over the world. Part of their time was spent visiting good friends, Mr. and Mrs. James Sutherland. The highlight of the weekend came about following the semi-finals on Saturday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Woodruff were invited to attend a party sponsored by the Omaha Junior League at the Omaha Country Club in honor of the players in the tournament.

The past weekend, Scott Cole, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Cole of Southbrook Summit, donned his best suit and best hat, so to speak, to escort Miss Cissy Swepston to the Demolay Sweetheart Ball which was held at the Shrine Temple.

Next weekend, the Cole family will go to Bertrand to join in a most joyous occasion, the 55th wedding anniversary of Mrs. Cole's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Stubbendick.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Goettsch of Eastborough welcomed four couples from their church to their home on Friday evening. Included in the gathering were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rogge, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Hovland, Mr. and Mrs. David Rathjen and their son Nathan who is three months old, and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Cuzzupe. Coffee and desert were served following the evening's discussion.

When relatives are nearby, it is always enjoyable to get together for Sunday supper. Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Ruyle of Eastborough took advantage of the short distance between Lincoln and Beatrice to visit Mrs. Ruyle's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Vitosh Sunday. The Ruyle's five children, Sherri, Nanci, Patricia, Joan and Bobby, who range in age from 12 to five, enjoyed both the short drive as well as the visit with their grandparents.

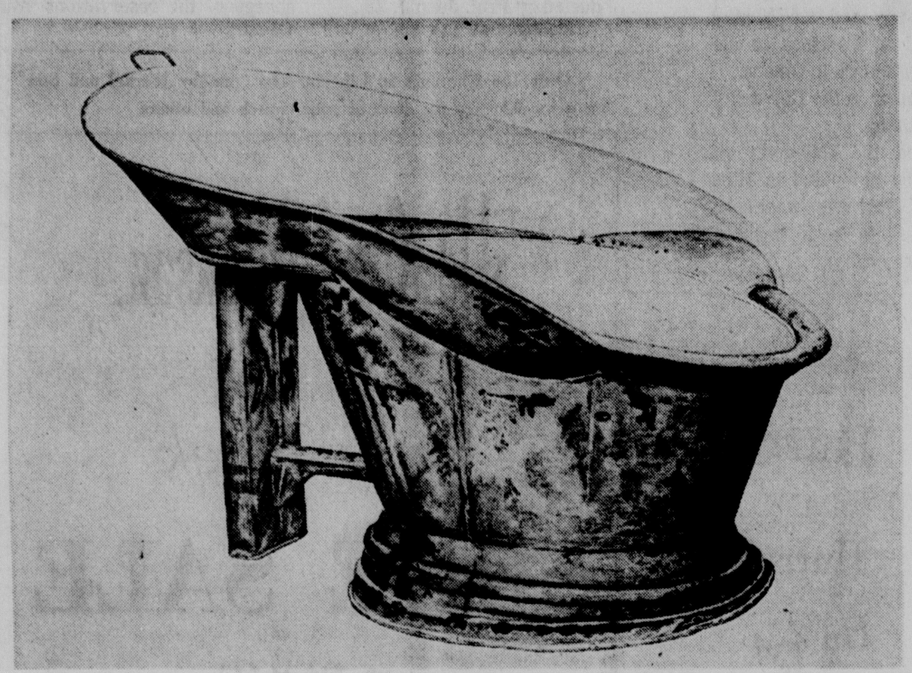
Know Your Antiques



The tub had its use on Saturday night in the pioneer days. This tin tub was painted gray with a rose exterior. It was made and designed by John Jewett about 1850 in Buffalo, N.Y.
(Index of American Design, Washington, D.C.)

By RALPH AND TERRY KOVEL

Saturday night had a different purpose in the past. It wasn't spent at the movies or watching TV; it was bath night. Each child and adult had a bath at least once a week in the well run home. The water was heated on a stove and carried to a large tin tub.

The tub was one of two styles. A large high tin tub filled to the brim with hot water was only a luxury for those who had enough help to carry in the water. A smaller tin tub had a large rim. You could sit on the edge and wash your feet first. It was possible to wash the rest of you in the small amount of water that was in the tub. This was the preferred tub in rural homes where there were only the children to bring the water.

Too much bathing was considered dangerous. It supposedly produced rheumatic fever and diseases.

It was not until 1851 that a tub first was installed in the White House by President Fillmore. Mail order catalogs began showing built-in tubs for the average American home about 1900.

Q. Are square shank nails an indication of age? Our cupboard is made with these old handmade nails.

A. Round nails came into use about 1880. Cut nails or those with square shanks are still being made. They hold better than the round shank nails and are still used in special types of buildings. One American firm is making over 100 varieties of nails that are sold in all parts of the world. At first, all the nails were cut by hand. Nail making machinery made it possible to cut nails more quickly by the 1820s. The nails were heat treated or tempered for added strength.

Q. I recently purchased a china left-handed mustache cup. It is marked "Brandenburg" and a small anchor is printed near the name. How old is it?

A. The Brandenburg left-handed mustache cup is a recently made item. It is being imported and sold through gift shops.

Q. My hat pin has an eagle on the top. There are 13 stars around it. The underside says "Scovill Mfg. Co. Waterbury".

A. Scovill Manufacturing Company of Waterbury, Conn. is one of the most famous button making firms in America. They made brass uniform buttons to government order. The firm was founded in 1802 under a different name. They are still making items of brass.

A reader has written that the earliest advertising calendar was in 1881. He owns a booklet advertising a patent medicine and the calendar is printed on the back page. Does anyone know of a wall calendar dating before 1888? That is the earliest we have heard about.

Arbor Day—And Arizona

Every Nebraskan is well aware of and heartily agrees with the principle involved in Arbor Day. And every Nebraskan, in spite of the Farmer's Almanac views, knows that the late J. Sterling Morton of Nebraska City, was the originator of the tree-planting day.

So, it is only natural that a transplanted Nebraskan, Mrs. A. Q. Schimmel of Tucson, Ariz., formerly of Lincoln, was exceedingly interested in what Murray Sinclair, a columnist for a Tucson newspaper, had to say about Arbor Day — and his mention of J. Sterling Morton.

Arizona, by the way, celebrates its Arbor Day much earlier than we do in Nebraska — But here is a reprint of the column.

Arbor Day is being neglected and forgotten, and it's too bad.

For instance, I asked my 12-year-old grandson Tony if he's even heard of it. He hadn't.

"What's it for?" he asked, leaving himself wide open.

"It's for planting trees," I told him. "It's for recognizing human kinship with the living earth. It's a day when we could show the whole world that we can improve the land as well as destroy it."

"Say, that's great," he said with a singular lack of enthusiasm as he edged his way toward the door.

That's the trouble: Nobody is enthused over Arbor Day any more, not even the gentle flower people. They should like it because it has no civil or religious aspects.

"It's this Friday," I called to Tony as he started up the hill toward his home. "And it should be a national holiday with no school." THAT made him pause.

Actually Friday is Arbor Day only in southern Arizona. In the northern counties it doesn't come until April. But nobody seems to care.

Florida and West Virginia have two Arbor Days every year. Nebraska and Utah make it a legal holiday. Every state, with the possible exception of Alaska, which has lots of trees, gives it some form of token recognition in April or May.

Two men had the idea for an annual tree-planting splurge about the same time.

Nebraska newspaperman Julius Morton surrounded his cottage with a jungle of trees, shrubbery and vines and then roamed the state spreading the gospel of tree planting. Just 99 years ago the Nebraska governor set aside April 22 as a day of tree planting and it became Nebraska's favorite event. In 16 years the folks planted 600 million trees and 100,000 acres of forests grew on what had been raw and open plains.

The Farmer's Almanac champions the cause of Dr. Birdsey Northrop, son of a Kent, Conn., farmer, as the father of Arbor Day. Apparently he got the American Forestry Assn. to pass a resolution in 1883 urging the school kids of the nation to plant trees like mad on a given day. Now it has some support in Canada, Australia, Japan and a few European countries.

No matter who had it first, the idea is too good to be allowed to die. We can still revive a national sentiment for caring for the earth.

I'm going to do my part. On Friday I'll plant at least a dozen trees and spread about 2,000 Palo Verde seeds I've been saving since last spring. The dogs of my neighborhood will probably vote me Man of the Year.

Bridal Party

Naming the members of her bridal party this morning is Miss Catherine Ellen Adamson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Adamson, whose marriage to Richard W. Huwaldt will be an event of Saturday afternoon, Feb. 13.

Mrs. Robert Leavitt and Miss Sue Adamson will attend their sister as honor attendants for the 2 o'clock ceremony, which will be solemnized at Westminster Presbyterian Church. Miss Jackie Wilken will be bridesmaid.

Serving Mr. Huwaldt as best man will be Dan Rossbach of Benkleman, and James Fairbanks of Shelton and Bill Dibbert will be groomsmen. Seating the guests will be Roger Leapley and Robert Leavitt, the bride-elect's brother-in-law.

Recent bridal courtesies honoring Miss Adamson include the linen shower for which Mrs. Bud Dendinger and her daughter, Mrs. Larry Binder of Yankton, S. Dak., were hostesses at the home of Mrs. Dendinger on Tuesday evening, Jan. 26.

A lingerie shower was presented to Miss Adamson on Wednesday evening, Jan. 20, when Miss Carol Reinke and Mrs. Clyde Merry were hostesses at the home of Mrs. Merry.

On Friday evening, Feb. 12, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Huwaldt of Randolph will entertain in prenuptial courtesy to their son and his fiancee at a rehearsal dinner to be held at Tony and Luigi's Restaurant. The guests will include the members of the families and the bridal party.

ABBY

no one in trouble should be ignored

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A very dear man I knew had a stroke in the lobby of his place of business. He lay on the floor in that lobby for about an hour and a half. It was nearly rush hour. I suppose people thought he was drunk so they passed him by. He died the following day.

That fine man had a young people's group in church. I am one of the young people.

The message I want to convey through your widely-read column, Abby, is this: Please, if you see someone in need, drunk, sick, no matter what, tell a guard at the door or a policeman. Don't ignore him. Do what you can to help him. You may save his life.

"Mr. L." had a stroke and a cerebral hemorrhage. He may have died even if he had been taken to a hospital immediately. But at least he wouldn't have died all alone on the cold floor of a lobby.

J.C., STATEN ISLAND, N.Y.

DEAR J.C.: If your letter changes the thinking of only one person who would deny help to a stranger because he doesn't want to "get involved," it's well worth the space in any newspaper. Thank you for writing.

DEAR ABBY: I am a grown woman with a good husband, three nice sons and a full busy life. But "Wrong Way Corrigan" has nothing on me. I do a lot of traveling, to and from dog shows, and I always allow myself at least one hour in which to get lost. I don't mean a chance wrong turn, I mean really lost!

Even if I have been there before, I always get hopelessly turned around and have to stop and ask directions. Sometimes I have to stop and ask directions two and three times. I am a careful driver and I am considered fairly intelligent, but I have absolutely no sense of direction.

My husband says I get lost because I have no self-confidence and I set out "expecting" to get lost. Can that be? Are there others like me? Have you any suggestions?

"LOST" IN VA.

DEAR LOST: Don't be ashamed. Some of our brainest people get lost a lot. Recommended solution: Don't start out unless you have written instructions on how to get where you're going. If you should get lost, stop at once and ask for help. (And be sure you listen carefully so that you understand the directions.) Also always take a telephone number of the place you're headed for in case you want to call them and ask how to get there. If that fails, carry a compass, a Bible and a survival kit.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Opening lead — three of diamonds.

It was impossible to predict the workings of Sylvia's mind, and it did not take her fellow members at the club long to realize the absolute futility of attempting to rationalize the many surprising and exotic plays Sylvia was capable of improvising on the spur of the moment.

For example, take this hand which occurred shortly after she joined the club. South was undoubtedly short of the requirements for a forcing two club bid, but since he was playing against Sylvia (East), he felt entitled to stretch his values an extra point or two.

He got to four spades and West, faced with a difficult lead, selected a low diamond. Declarer had no way of knowing that West had underled the ace and he naturally followed low from dummy. Sylvia played the queen and, much to her amazement, she won the trick.

She returned the five once she had recovered from the shock and West, of course, led a third diamond for Sylvia to ruff.

But Sylvia, who was laboring under the misapprehension that the contract was three notrump — she later explained that players who open two clubs generally wind up at three notrump — failed to ruff the third diamond, much to West's chagrin. Instead, she discarded a heart.

Declarer thus found himself in dummy for the last time and seized the opportunity to take a heart finesse. The queen lost to the king — it was the third trick for the defense — and West returned a heart. South took the ace but eventually had to lose a trump trick to go down one.

Had Sylvia ruffed the third diamond, South would have made the contract. He would win any return, draw two rounds of trumps, cash the A-K-Q of clubs, then enter dummy with a trump and discard the queen of hearts on the ten of clubs.

So, in her own inimitable way, Sylvia triumphed again!

Political Education Bill Is Killed In Committee

By United Press International

Apparently deciding the intent was good but the approach impractical, the Legislature's Education Committee Tuesday killed a bill aimed at encouraging more participation in local government.

The bill, by Sen. David Stahmer of Omaha, was killed on a 7-0 count of the eight-member committee with Lincoln Sen. Wallace Barnett not voting.

Stahmer's LB400 would have required all college students in Nebraska to take a six-hour course in state and local government before they would be eligible to graduate.

Knowledge Said Key

The Omaha lawmaker said government is becoming so complex that most people have become indifferent to it. With more knowledge of government, Stahmer said, people would be more inclined to work within the "system."

But the chairmen of the political science departments at the University of Nebraska's Lincoln and Omaha campuses said they would have to double the size of their departments in order to accommodate the students who would be required to attend the course.

"I agree wholeheartedly with the idea behind it but I don't think the practical realities would make it possible," said Dr. David C. Scott of UNO.

'Made No Difference'

Scott also told the committee he taught for nearly 25 years in Missouri where they have such a law "and it didn't make one iota of difference in the participation of government."

The measure was one of three bills killed by the committee, all without dissenting votes.

The other bills killed would have required schools to conduct five-year surveys of student dropouts and would have allowed school boards to permit school buses to be used for nonschool functions, such as transporting elderly persons to meetings.

On both bills the committee indicated it felt the practical disadvantages far outweighed the value of the measures' intentions.

Professor Asks Legislators To Give 'Best Thinking' To NU Needs

State legislators were asked Tuesday to give "your best thinking" to consideration of needs of the University of Nebraska and its programs.

"We are in no position to ask for special favors," the senators were told by an NU faculty spokesman.

"What we do ask . . . is that you give this matter your best thinking, perhaps a special amount of study," said Prof. Albin T. Anderson.

The occasion was a luncheon hosted by the NU Faculty Club for members of the Unicameral.

"Never before has there been such a pressing need for your own careful consideration of the university and its programs," the history professor said.

Drawing a comparison between NU football coach Bob Devaney and Chancellor D. B. Varner, Anderson noted that Devaney "came to this campus a few years ago with a dream."

Anderson said the success which Devaney and the Cornhuskers have enjoyed "would never have come without the support of people everywhere — who gave generously of their heart and mind and means."

He noted Varner came to the campus a year ago.

"He too had a dream, and it was carefully and conscientiously packaged in the budget that the regents sent to the Statehouse.

"Last Thursday," Anderson said, "that dream was shattered."

On Thursday, Gov. J. James Exon revealed his budget proposals for the coming year, and those recommendations cut drastically what had been asked, as well as slightly dropped the total state appropriations from last year's figure.

"We find it hard to believe that the good people of this state really want to cripple their new, painfully restructured university system," Anderson suggested.

"We find it hard to believe that the Legislature, which brought it into being, wants to see it wither on the vine.

"Too often in the past have men's dreams been cast carelessly upon the dungheap of history."

Anderson said he believes the university, as a community of "scholars, teachers and students," remains "a powerful civilizing instrument" despite "its troubles."

Hoppe Offers County Road Plan Changes

Lancaster County Engineer Walter Hoppe presented to Lancaster County Commissioners Tuesday proposed additions and alterations to his proposed 1971-72 fiscal year and six-year road programs on which the board must act before March 1.

The changes he said will increase the 1971-72 fiscal year program from $1,304,000 to $1,481,000, while the six-year additions will increase the estimated costs from $8,142,000 to $8,559,000.

The proposed changes for the 1971 fiscal year include dropping two miles of grading proposed from Holland and instead paving three-fourths of a mile east of Firth at a cost of $60,000. The previous grading proposal would have cost an estimated $24,000.

Another change for the 1971-72 fiscal year is to pave an additional strip of one-half mile on Folsom adjacent to West South at an estimated cost of $85,000 which is in addition to $215,000 paving and grading already scheduled for that area.

Hoppe also proposed changing proposed grading from west of Denton to south of Denton at an estimated cost of $95,000.

Proposed changes for the six-year proposed program include three miles of paving from two miles north of Emerald to Highway 34, and adding 1,000 feet of paving from the Malcolm city limits north to Malcolm High School. The Emerald project is expected to cost $225,000 while the additional paving at Malcolm will be about $15,000.

In other action, the board set March 9 for hearing on the proposed merger of the Southeast and Bennet Fire Districts. An appeal to the Lancaster District Court sometime ago had sent the issue back to the county board because of question of qualified signatures on a petition.

Doubling Public Employes' Insurance Limit Advanced

The Unicameral Tuesday gave preliminary approval to a bill which would double the maximum amount of insurance coverage available to public employes.

The bill is LB177 sponsored by Sen. Harold Simpson of Lincoln.

In advancing the bill from general file, the Legislature beat back Simpson's attempts to raise the current $5,000 ceiling to $50,000.

$10,000 Limit OKd

Rather, after voting down Simpson's floor amendment by a 27-9 margin, the Legislature adopted an amendment recommended by the Banking and Insurance Committee that the limit be set at $10,000.

Simpson's original bill before the committee amendment would have simply done away with any ceiling.

The morning session also saw an attempt to send another bill which would have voided Omaha's annexation of Millard to a committee which had earlier killed a similar annexation bill.

The new bill is Omaha Sen. Richard Proud's LB868, which would require a vote of both cities before the annexation is approved.

Panel Killed LB159

Proud's earlier bill, LB159, which was the same as 868, was killed by the Urban Affairs Committee.

However, LB868 was sent to the Public Works Committee by the Legislature's Reference Committee.

That assignment of LB868 has been protested by Omaha Sen. George Syas, one of the opponents of LB159.

Scottsbluff Sen. Terry Carpenter Tuesday moved to have Proud's latest annexation bill sent back from public works to urban affairs but withdrew his motion until the bill is received by the Legislature in printed form.

Wheat Growers To Hear Hanway

Ogallala (UPI) — The chairman of the University of Nebraska Agronomy Department will address the Nebraska-Wyoming Wheat Growers Association at its Feb. 15 meeting.

Dr. Donald Hanway will address the group, which will meet at the Ramada Inn at Ogallala.

The Wheat Hearts, the association's ladies organization, will also meet the same day at Ogallala.

A Proper Decision

Omaha Tech principal Carl Palmquist and Nebraska School Activities Association executive secretary Les Chamberlin are to be congratulated on their decisions regarding the future of basketball at the Omaha school.

There will be some who will argue that the steps taken by those two officials did not go far enough in retaliation for the injuries suffered by a referee working the Tech-Council Bluffs Thomas Jefferson basketball game and the TJ cheerleader.

Palmquist has suspended the two offenders, the player who assaulted the official and the Tech student, who assaulted the cheerleader and Chamberlain has placed the school on probation. Both actions were just as was the decision by Palmquist to continue the basketball program at the school.

No grocer would think of throwing out an entire basket of apples just because he found one or two in the basket that were spoiled. Nor would a farmer think of disposing of an entire crib of corn just because he found a couple of ears that were bad.

You can't indict an entire basketball team because of the actions of one of its members. You simply get rid of the bad apple. And you can't indict an entire school because of the actions of a few students. You deal harshly only with those bad ears of corn.

Granted, this is not the first time that Omaha Tech has been involved in trouble on the sports front, but in all cases, the trouble certainly did not involve the entire team nor the entire student body.

Blame Belong Elsewhere

We are equally sure that the majority of players on the Tech team are law-abiding youngsters as are the majority of students attending Tech High School.

And we doubt that the school or the basketball team can be legitimately blamed for the actions displayed by the two offenders in the Saturday night outburst.

The blame must be placed elsewhere. The young man who attacked the referee did not come by his misbehaving ways after joining the basketball team.

We would suspect that his tendency to become such a troublemaker would have to go back farther than his high school basketball days — his family upbringing possibly.

A coach once described part of his job as one of having parents who failed to discipline their children through the first 15 or 17 years of their lives turning them over to him and expecting him to do the job now.

And in his efforts in the past few years to do that job, the coach has found his task complicated by those same parents and by those groups such as the Civil Liberties Union and others, who are more concerned with protecting the rights of the minority than of the majority.

Coaches Lack Backing

Many a coach in recent years, who has tried to discipline his squad by weeding out troublemakers has found himself being rebuked by gutless administrators and some have faced court challenges leveled by those aforementioned groups.

If any further action is due by Tech officials it should be in the area of weeding out other potential troublemakers before more trouble crops up.

And Chamberlain's probationary ruling should bring this about. If Tech has to dip into the band to come up with enough good citizen types to continue its basketball program, then that would be better than doing away with the program. We doubt that that would be the case.

Palmquist's and Chamberlain's refusal to panic is admirable. You don't junk the whole car just because one headlight goes out.

Satchel Paige Elected To Baseball Hall Of Fame

. . . FEELS NO SEGREGATION INVOLVED IN SPECIAL ELECTION SET UP FOR NEGROES

New York (AP) — Satchel Paige, the ageless pitching marvel whose exploits have made him part of American baseball folklore, doggedly maintained Tuesday "I don't feel segregated" after his election to the Hall of Fame in a special category honoring Negro League stars.

"I heard they had a place for me," Paige said slowly and distinctly. "I'm proud wherever they put me in the Hall of Fame. Every year I played, I said that was my best year. I know this is my best year."

The question of Paige's feelings in response to his designation as the first black player to be honored in this manner — criticized by some for separating blacks and whites — virtually dwarfed the proceedings presided over by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

But, despite persistent prodding by media representatives, Paige never once uttered a word criticizng his selection by the method announced only last week. And Kuhn underscored the fact that Paige will be fully accepted as a Hall of Famer.

"Technically he's not in the Hall of Fame," the commissioner acknowledged. "But realistically the Hall of Fame is a state of mind — and I think the fans feel that way."

Paige is not eligible for selection to the Hall of Fame as a major leaguer since he does not fulfill the requirement of having played 10 years in the majors — a requirement which none of the old stars of the Negro Leagues can meet.

But besides emphasizing his pleasure at being selected, Paige pointed out he has never been bitter toward the sport because black players were prohibited from playing in the majors until Jackie Robinson broke the color line in 1947.

"Quite a few people told me if I was white I would be playing in the big leagues," Paige acknowledged. "But I never did feel any bitterness. I was satisfied with my world-playing all over and being a keynote to black people.

"I don't believe there's a place I haven't played — coal mines, penitentiaries — and that's what I loved. I was with kids all over the world. Almost everybody around got to see me — or they have to be pretty old."

Paige, himself, is pretty old, but just how old no one really knows since the tall, lean pitcher has kept that a mystery throughout his career. But he is reliably reported to be older than the 65 to which he admits.

But while his age has remained a mystery his achievements have been clearly recognized, viewed through his barnstorming days against major league stars during his prime — and there are endless stories and anecdotes about his pitching, particularly the famous "hesitation" pitch in which he stopped in the middle of his delivery

Despite his acknowledged ability, Paige didn't reach the majors until 1948, one year after Robinson, when he was signed by Bill Veeck for the Cleveland Indians. Veeck had heard of Paige's amazing control, and tested him personally.

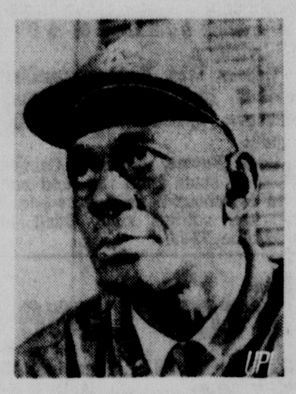
"He asked me to throw at a cigarette as a plate," Paige recalled, "and I threw four out of five over it."

Paige, at age 42 the oldest rookie in major league history, pitched the game he considers to be his best that season, a 1-0, three-hit shutout of the Chicago White Sox. He also pitched for the St. Louis Browns and the Kansas City A's, retiring finally at 59 following the 1965 season.

During his major league career he compiled a 28-31 won-lost record. He last was seen in a major league uniform in 1968 when the Atlanta Braves signed him so that he could qualify for a pension.

Paige was selected for enshrinement in the Hall of Fame by a special 10-man committee of former players, owners and writers who were in the Negro Leagues at the time they flourished.

The Negro League stars selected in this manner will be part of a special exhibit at the Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y., and will be enshrined each year at the same time as players selected through the normal procedure.



SATCHEL PAIGE

NU SQUEAKS BY, 69-67

. . . Overtime Needed For Harried Huskers

Ames, Iowa — Veteran Al Nissen and sophomore Tony Riehl each scored three points in the overtime period as the University of Nebraska basketball team completed a long uphill struggle with a 69-67 overtime victory over defense-minded Iowa State here Tuesday night.

The victory was a must for the Huskers if they were to maintain any hopes of a challenging position in the Big Eight Conference race, but it took a strong second half comeback to get it.

Iowa State handcuffed Nebraska's ability to score from the field in the first half with a stiff zone defense, opening up a 35-28 halftime lead and the Huskers had to play catchup ball the rest of the way.

NU rallied from a nine-point deficit, 59-50, to take the lead for the first time, 62-61, with three minutes left in the game, but, after Tom Gregory stalled the final 1:20 of the game and Marv Stewart's long shot with three seconds remaining failed to go through, sending the game into overtime.

That's when Nissen and Riehl took control.

Nissen opened the scoring in the overtime, tipping in a missed shot by Gregory to give the Huskers a 65-63 edge.

Mack tried to even the game for ISU, but his shot missed and was kicked out of bounds off an Iowa State teammate's foot and Nebraska again went into its delay game, trying to force the Cyclones out of the zone defense which had kept the Huskers at long range all evening.

Iowa State shifted to a man-to-man defense with 2:38 showing on the clock and Riehl responded with a layin off a feed by Stewart for a 67-63 Husker advantage.

Jack DeVilder kept Iowa State in the contest at that point with a quick fielder, but Mack fouled Nissen and Al popped in the first shot of a one-and-one.

He missed the second shot, however, leaving the Huskers with a three-point, 68-65 lead and a Mack field goal with 0:15 left to play in the overtime cut the margin back to one, 68-67.

Riehl added the clincher with seven seconds left when he was fouled by Rick Engel. The Husker sophomore made it 69-67 by hitting the first shot of his one-and-one opportunity, but he also missed his second attempt.

There was too little time remaining, however, as DeVilder's 35-foot desperation shot couldn't find the mark, preserving the Husker victory.

"It was a real dandy," Husker coach Joe Cipriano said. "Our kids made a great comeback."

Iowa State's zone took its toll in the first half, holding the normally hot-shooting Huskers to a frigid 32% from the field in the first half as the Cyclones slowly pulled away.

Nebraska allowed Iowa State to push the margin to 10, 45-35, in the second half before starting its comeback.

With Leroy Chalk finding the range, the Huskers pulled to within one, 49-48, but then fell back again as Mack ran off his string to rebuild the nine-point edge, 59-50.

But Jura and Nissen this time engineered a Husker rally and, after three Jura buckets and two by Nissen, Nebraska held the lead for the first time since the game's opening basket.

The Iowa State zone also corralled Nebraska's effectiveness on the boards.

Although smaller, the Cyclones convincingly outrebounded the Huskers, 41-33.

Mack was the big gun offensively for Iowa State, taking game scoring honors with 26 points, but Nebraska had five players in double figures with Jura and Chalk each hitting 15.

The victory gives Nebraska a 13-5 record overall and evens its conference record at 3-3. Iowa State, an 84-62 victim of Cornhuskers in their first meeting this year, slumps to a 1-7 Big Eight mark.

In a preliminary contest, the Iowa State Freshman team, with Jim Heck scoring 29 points, defeated Nebraska's freshmen, 88-73.

Only One Bettor Collects $25,527

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — There was just the simple announcement over the public address sytem at the New Orleans Fair Grounds that a $2 bet had just paid off $25,527.

They had to announce it over the loudspeaker because they can't fit a sum like $25,257 into the flashing lights on the tote board.

The collective gasp from the crowd of 7,000 was a mixture of astonishment, delight and envy.

"I was so shocked all I could think about was getting home," said Calvin McManus, a 21-year-old Navy veteran of Vietnam who now works as a bus boy in a New Orleans restaurant. He held the winning ticket Monday.

McManus, wearing a floppy hat left over from his Navy days, arrived at the horse race track "with only $10 to bet and that $2 on the exacta was my first best of the day."

The first exacta was the fourth race. To win an exacta, the bettor must pick the winner and runnerup.

McManus was the only one at the track who managed to turn that trick in the fourth race.

For one thing, Mae W.S., the horse he picked to win, was such a long shot she paid $281.60.

The horse he chose for second, Driprint, hadn't inspired much confidence either, paying $17.40.

The combination was 11 and 1.

The exacta payoff was a record for horse tracks in North America. The previous high was $9,224 last Nov. 14 at Lincoln Downs.

After a conference with his family, McManus returned to the track to pick up his check and sign the W-2 form which an alert U.S. Internal Revenue Service provides for all mutuel winners.

"It's the first time I've ever won a big amount like this," he said. "I don't think I'll be back for a while. Maybe I will go back to school."

TECH CONTEST TO BE PLAYED AS SCHEDULED

Omaha (AP) — The Omaha Tech-Abraham Lincoln basketball game will be played Thursday night as scheduled, the principals of the two schools announced Tuesday.

Kenneth Kuester, principal of Abraham Lincoln, said Tuesday, "We asked Tech to make every effort to maintain peace. We're going over there with the idea that there will be no trouble and we don't expect any."

The Nebraska School Activities Associated Monday placed Tech on probation for an outbreak during a game Saturday with Thomas Jefferson at Monroe.

Carl Palmquist, principal of Omaha Tech, had announced Monday night that Tech would still complete its basketball schedule "under as normal conditions as possible."

Record Number Sign At K-State

Manhattan, Kan. (AP) — Nineteen high school football players, the most ever on the first possible day, signed Big Eight letters of intent to attend Kansas State University Tuesday.

Coach Vince Gibson, commenting on the fact that 13 were from Kansas said, "I'm delighted at the number of Kansas players we've signed. I think we have an excellent group."

Others included backs Regan Steiner, 6-1, 195, Alton, Ill.; Calvin Leonard, 6-2, 200, Indianola, Iowa; Kevin Vietti, 6-4, 190, Pryor, Okla., and Tom Adams, 6-3, 220, Oklahoma City; and Ernie Nelson, 6-3, 245, Oklahoma City, a lineman.

Huskers Sign Adkins, Finney

A pair of all-city and all-state football selections from Lincoln, Ken Adkins of Lincoln High and Lynn Finney of Pius X, Tuesday became the first high school seniors to sign Big Eight letters of intent to attend the University of Nebraska.

The signatures of the local standouts were among about 50 being sought by the Cornhusker coaching staff on the initial "official" day of recruiting.

The Big Eight letter of intent commits an athlete signing the document to a particular school within the conference. The more restrictive national letter of intent signing date comes later. The conference letter merely ends competition for an athlete among Big Eight schools.

Adkins, on his way to becoming only the fourth athlete in Lincoln High history to win nine letters, has been named as an end on the all-city football team three times. He's also a standout in basketball and track.

Finney, a Class B all-stater as well as an all-city selection, was a running back and linebacker for Pius X. He also competes in wrestling and track.

The Cornhusker coaching staff fanned out across the state and region Tuesday to collect signatures from other prospects.

Clete Fischer, who heads the Eastern Nebraska recruiting, and head coach Bob Devaney were in Omaha to sign several metro standouts.

Freshman coach Jim Ross, sports publicist Don Bryant and assistant track coach Dean Brittenham were visiting other Nebraska cities.

Other territories being covered by the Cornhusker staff included Iowa (Carl Selmer and Jim Walden), Kansas and Missouri (Warren Powers), New Jersey (Monte Kiffin), Ohio (Bill Thornton), Michigan (Mike Corgan), Colorado (John Melton) and California (Tom Osborne).

Ross is a fullback. Gray is an end and the other three play in the interior line.

Another Cooper Vaults 15 Feet At Husker Track

Back in the stone age of pole vaulting when aluminum poles were the rage, collapsing the market on bamboo catapaults, Nebraska had a vaulter named Don Cooper, an expert with both.

Renowned throughout the Big Seven as the "Moose", Cooper made college vaulting history at the Kansas Relays in 1951.

"Moosey" Cooper stunned the KU crowd that April afternoon by soaring 15 feet, one-eighth of an inch to become the first collegiate vaulter in history to conquer the 15-foot barrier made easy by ex-collegian Cornelius Warmerdam.

It mattered not — except to Cooper, of course — that an hour later on the West Coast Don Laz of Illinois went 15-1½ to erase his newly-won status as the highest soaring collegian. History would always record that Don Cooper of Nebraska — like John Glenn of space vaulting in the next decade — was the first collegian in pole vaulting "space."

That was 20 years ago and the pole vault event has taken on stratospheric proportions with the advent of the fiberglass pole. But there is always room for human interest in sports.

And the 1971 Nebraska track team has an aura of human interest surrounding the pole vault.

Mark Cooper a freshman from Wheat Ridge, Colo., is the leading vaulter. In his first two meets, the 6-1, 173-pounder has cleared 15-0.

You guessed it! Mark Cooper, the 1971 frosh who can vault 15-feet, is the son of Don Coooper, the 1951 senior who was the first collegian to break the magic barrier.

Incidentally, Don Cooper — Wheat Ridge High track coach — coached son Mark Cooper in high school and did such a good job his son cleared 15-3 outdoors as a prepper.

Nebraska track coach Frank Sevigne predicts Mark will be the first 16-footer in Nebraska history.

"Mark has fine ability — of course, he had pretty good background coaching under Moose — and a real desire to improve," Sevigne said. "He can become a 16-footer and a Big Eight challenger before he graduates."

Modest Moosey, as he was known in his hey-day, breaks into a grin when he watches Mark vault.

"By golly, you know I'm kind of proud of that boy," Don said. "Like father, like son — but think what I could have done with a fiberglass pole."

What does Mark say?

"That's my Pop!"

Blue Hill's Jim Robinson capped an outstanding evening against Franklin over the past weekend with a clutch school basketball's Player of the Week honor.

In the Republican Valley Conference championship game, Franklin had taken a 59-58 lead on a free throw with just three seconds remaining.

But Robinson, who finished with 17 points, was yet to make his most important bucket of the crucial contest.

The 6-1, senior, a track standout who can jump his height, took a court-length pass and pumped a 17-footer at the buzzer to provide a thrilling 60-59 Blue Hill victory.

Others who had outstanding games last week and thus deserve special mention include:

Gary Bowne, Adams Canned 11 of 17 shots from the field and had 12 rebounds as Adams edged top ten ratings rival Odell in overtime, 77-76.

Mark Wolford, Hebron — Tallied 22 points and grabbed 20 rebounds in pacing Bears to a win over Henderson. Wolford averaging nearly 50 percent from the field for the season.

Murray Wilson, Hastings — Gave Hastings a safe margin for victory with two clutch free throws in the final 20 seconds against Norfolk.

Denny Bauer, Hildreth — Paced the Greyhounds with 20 points over Fort Kearney Conference foe Overton in crucial game between two top ten rated Class D teams.

Tom Hale, Mitchell — His 23-point performance led Mitchell to a come-from-behind upset victory over Class B Chadron.

Randy Benish, Norfolk — Calmly canned two free throws with just six seconds remaining to bring Norfolk from behind to a 39-38 victory over Fremont.

Tom Kropp, Aurora — A high scoring evening for this all-state returnee is usually not noteworthy. He's been Aurora's high-point man in every game this season. But against Superior last weekend he tallied 57/!!

Neil Klutman, Columbus — For his 25-point output in leading Columbus past Lincoln East and into the No. 1 position in the Class A ratings.

Byron Rademaker, Loomis — Came up with 25 points — 17 of them in the first quarter — to get Loomis off to a fast start on the way to a victory over Pleasanton.

Class D Sees Big Changes As Traditional Rivals Play

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

Though Mead continues in the No. 1 position and only one new team appears on the list, the Class D high school basketball top ten undergoes its biggest reshuffling in several weeks in the current ratings.

Meetings between traditional rivals Hildreth-Overton and Adams-Odell were the cause of the changes.

After carrying on a season-long feud in the Fort Kearney Conference last year, both Hildreth and Overton qualified from different districts to the state tournament. Then they met again at the big show in Lincoln in the first round. Overton won that clash and made the finals before losing to eventual champion Shickley.

Both clubs have a big group of returning veterans and have renewed the rivalry where they left off last winter. A week ago Overton was ranked No. 2 and Hildreth eighth.

But Hildreth squeezed out 65-63 victory last weekend to climb to the No. 6 spot this week and shove Overton down to seventh.

Adams and Odell, also from neighboring districts, squared off for a third time over the past weekend with the usual razor-thin result. After the three matchups, Adams can claim just a one-point superiority.

Adams captured the Mudecas Conference ttile in the first matchup between the pair, 68-66, in overtime. In a regular season game Odell reversed that with an identical two-point triumph, 70-68.

Last weekend they clashed for the Homesteader Conference championship. Again it was an overtime affair, with Adams claiming the latest struggle by an even closer 77-76 count.

Doniphan is the biggest benefactor of those results. The unbeaten Cardinals jump up to the runnerup position, with Adams and Odell following in that order.

Benedict, the only other unbeaten quintet in the small school division besides leader Mead and Doniphan, moves up a notch to fifth.

After Hildreth and Overton comes Litchfield and Yutan, followed by the only newcomer to the group. Trenton gains the No. 10 spot, replacing Wheatland. Wheatland.

Wheatland lost twice over the weekend after gaining top ten recognition. Trenton, unbeaten since the first week of the season, hopes to continue its winning ways and stay around longer.

—PITCHING MUST IMPROVE—

NWU Baseballers Slated For 28 Tilts

A 28-game slate to be played as 14 doubleheaders was announced Tuesday by coach Ron Bachman for the 1971 Nebraska Wesleyan University baseball team.

The Plainsmen hope experience will begin to pay dividends this spring. Most of the 1969 squad is still around that produced a 7-20 record last year.

Bachman must get some pitching help if NWU is to have a successful year.

None of the six players who made trips to the mound last year had a winning record. Earl Nannen, now a junior, was closest with a 2-3 mark and a 2.22 earned run average.

Omahan Mike Garlow could be the Plainsmen's key hurler. Despite a 1-3 mark as a freshman collegian, he pitched great ball in the American Legion program last summer and paved the way for his team's entry in the national championships.

Senior catcher Rick Boals and sophomore shortstop Cookie Irions were the club's top hitters in 1969 with .344 and .337 averages respectively.

Wesleyan will again compete in the Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference.

The schedule:

April 5 — Northwestern of Iowa; 6 — at Creighton; 9 — Doane; 10 — at Kearney; 14 — at Wahoo JFK; 17 — at Midland; 20 — at UNO; 24 — Dana; 28 — at Bellevue; 29 — at Concordia; May 1 — Bellevue; 3 — at Northwest Missouri; 6 — Wahoo JFK; 8 —Hastings.

Texas Bows Again To Nebraska

. . . DENTON JUNIOR CUTTER TABBED FOR HONORS

The state of Texas was aced out twice by Nebraska in 1970, once by the Cornhuskers in college football and another time by Jesse James Leo, who Monday was named the world's champion junior cutting horse.

"It was an upset. It really was," Denton's Dave Martin Jr. said Monday after receiving official notice of the No. 1 designation from the American Quarter Horse Association.

"Very seldom does this honor leave the state of Texas," Davie said of the award, which was initiated in 1946. "We've checked, and we're sure that the state of Nebraska has never won a world's first place award in this category."

Davie's father, Dave Martin Sr., who owns and helped train Jesse James Leo, compares winning the world's title to Nebraska's winning the national football championship.

"It's just like the Cornhuskers being No. 1," he says. "We had to really push to beat out a Texan, and we think it's one of the best things to happen for the state in horse cutting."

The Texan to who he referred is multi-millionaire Rex Cauble, who "promotes cutting horses to the hilt," according to Dave.

"He had a world's champion (Cutter Bill)," Dave noted, "and he flew him all over the world to win it. This year he had another horse (Bill's Highness) that was way ahead of us in the point standings at the start of the year."

Although Davie didn't fly Jesse James Leo to various national shows, he did haul the world's champion in a trailer more than 60,000 miles last year to compete in 15 states.

"I got sick of driving that truck," Davie admits, "but we were determined to win the world's title. Cauble had given his horse to another man, but still promoted it financially.

"We had to compete against some tough odds," Davie added. "Cauble hired three different professional trainers and riders to win on this one horse. He paid them $100 a day, plus expenses and whatever they won.

"And they did everything they possibly could to beat me," Davie pointed out, "but it wasn't enough. We beat the horse five straight times in Oklahoma and Texas, and it got to the point where they tried to avoid competing head-to-head against us because it took points away from them and gave points to us."

Davie said he competed in "about 95" different shows and won "about half of them," including the Kansas State Fair, the Nebraska State Fair, Ak-Sar-Ben, the American Royal in Kansas City and the Dallas Trinity Show, which is the largest one-day show in the nation.

The American Quarter Horse Association confirmed Monday that Jesse James Leo had finished with 62 points in the national standings while Bill's Highness, its nearest challenger, finished with 53 points.

"We really started pushing for the No. 1 honor about May," Davie said, "and it's been a long, rugged haul."

Although Davie rode Jesse James Leo in 99 per cent of the shows, Dave was atop the horse when it started its career with an 11th place finish out of 265 horses in the 1969 National Cutting Horse Futurity at Ft. Worth, Tex.

"I could have cried," Dave said. "It wasn't the horse which lost it for us. It was me. I couldn't beat the personal pressure of the $106,000 purse. I went into the final sitting third."

Is the father-son tandem going to shoot for another world's title this year?

Unlike the Cornhuskers, they both say no.

"We felt that if we ever had a chance, this was the year," Dave said. "So we gave it everything we had, and it turned out just right."

Dave says he'll go to Mexico City to accept the award in March.

Davie claims he'll stay home. "Someone has to," he says. "Besides, I'm tired of traveling."

Trading Volume Is New Record

New York (AP) — Trading on the New York Stock Exchange exploded Tuesday to its second straight daily record—28.25 million shares. Two blocks of two million shares each near the close pushed it over the top.

Most of the major market averages showed small losses, and advances and declines were about even among issues traded on the Big Board.

The trading pace zoomed from the opening and climbed well above the record of 25.59 million shares set on Monday.

The two biggest blocks involved $80 million worth of Greyhound Corp. shares. They were sold by General Host for public distribution.

On Monday, a record-size block of 3,248,000 shares of Allis Chalmers changed hands.

Greyhound closed up 5/8 at 20 1/8 on total volume of 4,105,000 shares. General Host advanced 3 to 17.

This was the eighth consecutive session in which Big Board volume exceeded 20 million shares.

Brokers said institutional investors continued to be very active and that smaller investors finally were leaping into the market in an effort to avoid missing the boat.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed with a loss of 2.33 to 879.79 after having been ahead by nearly 2 points in early trading. The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,200 common stocks slipped 0.01 to 53.65.

The Associated Press 60-stock average dipped .1 to 306.5 with industrials up .7, rails off 1.1, and utilities up .5. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index .06 to 97.51, a new 1970-71 high.

The number of big block transactions — 10,000 shares or more — on the New York exchange set a new record of 164. The old mark was 163 last Dec. 3. Big blocks numbered 126 on Monday.

Among 1,687 issues traded on the Big Board, 738 rose, and 688 fell. New 1970-71 highs totaled 221 against only 4 new lows.

Declines led advances by 499 to 461 among 1,163 issues traded. Volume ballooned to 8.33 million shares from 6.73 million on Monday.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Revenue Sharing Concept Is Gaining In Popularity

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

MERRYLE RUKEYSER

States Rights

A new dramatic reenactment is being made nationally of what economists call "Gresham's Law", which holds that bad money drives out good.

This principle has recently been greatly extended to include the follies of the "new economics", which have been displacing the economics of common sense. The new systems are really objectionable in the sense that they represent "no economics", with a decay of "discipline".

To be specific, there is increasing discussion of revenue sharing on the part of the federal government with the states and the localities. Your columnist pioneered in advocating this concept more than 15 years ago as a mean of providing an economic basis for preservation of states rights.

President Eisenhower repeatedly urged at governors' conferences that over-centralization at Washington be reversed and that activities which the states and localities are able and willing to perform be returned to them. But President Eisenhower failed to couple his recommendations with tax reforms which would make the proposed trend feasible.

Main Sources

Uncle Sam had through the years preempted the main new tax sources, leaving the school districts and other localities stuck with the inflexible and partly obsolete general property tax. An economist with vision, E. R. A. Seligman, early in the 20th Century, at the very first meeting of the National Tax Association, warned that the dependence of school districts on the general property tax spelled trouble.

My recommendation of revenue sharing was intended to preserve the constitutional system of checks and balances through making each level of government self supporting. I wanted to deal with the backsliding incidental to financial dependency whereby the localities tended to regard "financial aid" from higher levels of government — the states and the Federal Government — as windfall, "free money", which could be handled loosely.

Dr. Walter A. Heller, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers in the Kennedy administration, and for a time in the Johnson administration, took possession of the idea of revenue sharing and put his own conditions on it. His inclination was to retain federal responsibility for how the states and localities spent revenues shared by the federal government.

Worked Out Procedure

To obviate such dependency, this writer carefully worked out a procedure. To restore the independence of the coordinate branches of government, my suggestion was that no level of government be put in the role of Lady Bountiful and none in the position of recipient of handouts.

Accordingly, I proposed that under the constitution, a compact be set up between the federal government, on the one hand, and the states (and localities), on the other, whereby the income tax and other productive revenues would be collected by a new agency, and the proceeds would be distributed in accordance with a pre-agreed formula among the various levels of government.

President Nixon has been increasingly attracted to the concept of revenue sharing. The chief executive, in the transition to the new formula, would start with sharing $5 billion of new taxes and localities discretion over additional grants. But this approach perpetuates the illusion that the states and localities are getting federal funds. My plan would better clarify that the taxpayer is the source of all funds.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped, self addressed envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.)

Bill Would Hike License Period For Broadcaster

Washington (AP) — Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., has introduced a bill in the Senate to extend the term of a broadcaster's license from three to five years.

"The regulations, paper work surveys and other details which are required make the renewal of the license very burdensome on a local broadcaster," Sen. Curtis told the Senate in a statement accompanying introduction of his bill. He said members of Congress should have a special appreciation of these demands, "because many of us know what it means to run for office every two or three years."

Parade is the big four-color picture magazine section in the "Sunday Journal and Star."

Committee Kills Homestead Tax Exemption Hike

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Legislation to sharply increase the homestead tax exemption for Nebraskans 62 and older while eliminating the exemption now provided for other citizens was killed by the Revenue Committee Tuesday on a 5-3 vote.

The bill, LB86, sponsored by Sen. Orval Keyes of Papillion, would have cost the state an additional $20 million or more per year.

Keyes had proposed that the exemption be limited to the first $7,500 of actual value on homes owned by retired persons 62 or older and the first $10,000 of value on homes of all Nebraskans who are 65 or older.

State Tax Commissioner William Peters had earlier recommended that the exemption be limited to the second category of Nebraskans. But he later withdrew support for that proposal when its estimated cost was figured at $27.5 million a year.

Current homestead exemptions for all citizens cost the state about $5.7 million a year in the form of tax reimbursements to local government.

Keyes had proposed an income ceiling of $7,500 a year for recipients, but Peters had urged the committee to eliminate an income limit due to administrative difficulties.

Voting to kill the bill were Sens. Jules Burbach of Crofton, Maurice Kremer of Aurora, Jerome Warner of Waverly, Rudolf Kokes of Ord and William Skarda of Omaha.

Casting minority votes were Sens. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha, Willard Waldo of DeWitt and J. Jams Waldron of Callaway.

An attempt to kill other legislation which would extend the gasoline tax refund for agricultural and industrial use from 7½ cents to the full 8½ cents in state taxes paid on motor fuel deadlocked the committee.

The motion failed on a 4-4 tie, with Burbach, Skarda, Waldron and Mahoney voting to bury the proposal.

The estimated loss in highway revenue is $644,000 a year.

The bill, LB343, is strongly supported by the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation.

Killed at the request of its sponsor, Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, was LB59, the proposal to impose taxing limits on governmental subdivisions.

A package of five bills designed to move primary responsibility for inter-county and inter-property tax equalization from the State Board of Equalization to the counties was submitted to public hearing and held for later action.

Centrally assessed property tax revenue would be distributed to counties in proportion to assessed real estate tax valuations in each county.

Sexual Sociopath Bill Will Be Sent To Floor

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature's Judiciary Committee Tuesday indicated it would advance to the floor a model bill for the treatment of sexual sociopaths.

The measure, LB278, sponsored by State Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, was held by the committee for minor amendments following public hearing.

Carpenter said the legislation was developed by a Legislative Council interim study committee after a 1969 sexual psycopath law was invalidated by the Supreme Court.

Court Determines

Under the bill, Carpenter said, a person convicted of a sexual offense could be brought under further court proceedings for determination as to whether he is a sexual sociopath.

These proceeding could be initiated by the court or on motion of either the defense or prosecuting attorney. A court or jury determination that the person is a sexual sociopath would be based on expert medical testimony.

Under the bill, the court would retain jurisdiction over the sexual sociopath during his confinement for treatment, and his release back to society would require a judicial determination rather than an administrative one by hospital authorities.

Support Voiced

Support for the bill came from Dr. J. Whitney Kelley, Omaha psychiatrist and mental health committee chairman of the Nebraska Medical Association.

Asked if LB278 is a "good bill," Dr. Kelley replied, "I think so. We've spent a year on it."

Testifying in opposition, Virgil Carner, a social worker at the Lincoln Regional Center, contended the proposal places the sexual sociopath in "double jeopardy."

"The hospital has no discretion as to when the committed person can be returned to society," he said. "He has no ready access to the courts or to legal counsel for review of his case and release after treatment."

Arnold W. Messer, a University of Nebraska law student, said the bill was "too broadly drawn to withstand a court test."

Held 'Indefinitely'

"It would also permit a person to be indefinitely incarcerated as a sexual sociopath — long after his criminal term had expired," he charged.

In other action, the committee held for study Carpenter's LB362, which would provide a misdemeanor penalty for failure of participants engaged in disorderly conduct which threatens to erupt into violence or destruction from dispersing upon order of a peace officer.

State Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha contended the state's 1969 riot law is so vaguely worded as to become a "harrassment tool" for law enforcement officers.

The committee agreed to consult with the attorney general's office regarding possible amendment.

Advanced by the committee was another Carpenter proposal, LB29, to permit wiretapping in gambling cases, when authorized by a District Court judge.

Bill To Raise Usury Level Quickly Killed In Committee

By The Associated Press

A far-reaching bill which would have abolished a string of Nebraska laws covering installment selling and lending and revolving charge accounts died suddenly Tuesday when its sponsor, Scottsbluff Sen. Terry Carpenter, asked that it be killed.

The Legislature's Banking, Commerce and Insurance Committee responded by burying the measure, LB60, on a 7-0 vote.

The bill would have boosted the state's usury limit from 9% to 12% while repealing a bevy of special laws which permit interest charges in excess of the usury limit.

A show of hands at the public hearing indicated Carpenter to be its only proponent present. Several dozen witnesses stood ready to oppose the bill, but Carpenter's kill request made the hearing unnecessary.

The committee also killed at the request of sponsoring Sen. J. James Waldron of Callaway a bill, LB119, requiring periodic notification of the value of paid-up life insurance. Waldron said the bill was introduced at the request of a constituent but the senator had determined that the problem was an isolated one not warranting legislation.

Held for later disposition was Gothenburg Sen. Herbert J. Duis' LB137, which would allow insurance agents to extend credit up to six months on the premium of life and liability insurance policies, without such credit being considered a rebate. The bill was opposed by Dave Tews of Lincoln, appearing for the Nebraska Association of Insurance Agents.

In other action, the committee agreed to sponsor a legislative resolution calling for an interim study dealing with banks and their role in processing of state funds. Particularly, the study would determine what compensation banks should get for collecting and disbursing state moneys. The study also would include a review of "the processes of collection, paying, deposits and investments of funds of this state" as banks are affected.

He said that customers of the bank increased 13% to 8,400 and that $172,000 was added to the capital structure of the bank through the sale of 5,000 shares of common stock.

During the year, Citibank moved into remodeled and redecorated quarters at 14th & M. Tornblom said that during 1970 loans increased 20% at the bank to $6,185,141.

In looking age ahead to 1971, Tornblom said "Lincoln should prepare for a two-year period of construction activity, especially in the downtown area, with the new federal and state office buildings in the final stages of planning."

He said he expects loan interest rates to level off to slightly higher toward the end of the year and home building activity should take a spurt over recent years.

All directors and officers were reelected at the meeting. The following directors were re-elected:

Alfred H. Adams, Charles F. Adams, Clyde F. Card, Russell E. Eichelberger, Lawrence A. Enersen, Dale E. Fahrnbruch, Herbert H. Heumann, W. F. Hoppe Jr., Richard E. Kosman, John Maser Jr., Ralph E. Misko, Donald I. Parker, Tornblom Willard E., Townsend, Wendell M. Whalen and Kenneth G. Witt.

Dairy Products Hearing Put Off

The Nebraska Dairy Products Advisory Board has continued its public hearing scheduled for to a future date to be announced later. Chairman Sam Davidson of Lincoln announced Monday.

The scheduled hearing was on the petitions of Gillette Dairy of Norfolk, Beatrice Foods of Lincoln and Roberts Dairy of Omaha for changes in the marketing areas previously set by the board and for reconsideration of the prohobition against quantity discounts on dairy products.

Health Facility Construction Measure Is Killed By Panel

By The Associated Press

The Legislature's Public Health Committee Tuesday killed a health facility construction bill which had drawn opposition in an earlier public hearing.

State Sen. Orval A. Keyes' LB229 allowed counties to levy a 1.5-mill tax for construction of a county hospital, homes for the aged, mental health clinics or similar facilities.

Opposition to the Papillion lawmaker's bill during Monday's hearing came from residents of Bellevue, where a hospital has been contemplated. The committee action Tuesday was at Keyes' request.

Two Bills Killed

In another action, the committee killed a pair of bills after opposition was heard to both measures during the public hearing.

Lincoln Sen. Wally Barnett Jr. introduced LB272 to give Lincoln the option of hiring a person who is not a medical doctor as director of health.

The measure was opposed by the Lancaster County Medical Society, the Nebraska State Medical Society, the Lancaster County Tuberculosis Association and the Lancaster County Board.

Lincoln physician Dr. William Nye said the bill would "retard and set back the position of public health immeasurably."

'Doctor Responsible'

Margaret Royer, a registered nurse, said "we have to have a medical doctor who can be responsible for our programs at all time."

Several other nurses also registered opposition to the bill.

Also killed was LB279, introduced by State Sen. William Hasebroock of West Point, which would have added a chiropractor to the State Health Board.

Against Increase

Two Health Board members, Lincoln dentist B. J. Moran and the Rev. Elwyn C. Bergstraeser of Blair, chairman of the board, testified in opposition to increasing the size of the board.

The committee heard testimony from veterans groups on Valentine Sen. Otho Kime's LB334, which rephrases sections of law dealing with the Nebraska Veterans' Home in Grand Island.

The committee advanced the bill after deleting a section which would have given the Nebraska County Service Officers' Association representation on the board of inquiry and review.

SOUND GOVERNORS

They are another development of MAICO'S constant research in search of Better Searing.

Every individual has a different sound tolerance for amplified sound. Too much sound pressure against the ear drum can result in unbalanced and uncomfortable sound for a hearing aid wearer.

At a cost for less than you would suspect one of these "Sound Governors" may offer you better hearing than you can remember — with your present hearing aid or with any aid.

Future Of Community Said At Stake

Members of the newly organized Goals and Policies Committee were told Tuesday evening at their first meeting that "how well you do your job will determine to a great extent the character of our future community."

With these words Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf welcomed the 225 committee members who are charged with building the foundation upon which a new or revised comprehensive plan can be developed.

The broad-based group, made up of citizens residing in nearly all areas of the city and most of whom represent organizations, will be determining what kind of city and county the people want as far as future development and recommending to city and county officials goals and policies to achieve the desires of the people. Approximately 50 government personnel are also included on the committee.

Also addressing the group were Lancaster County Commissioner Bill Grossman; the Rev. Robert Jeambey, chairman of the group, and William Coibion, the consultant from th San Francisco office of Leo Daly Co. who will be assisting the group. The meeting was the first of 26 to 28 planned for the next 13 months, the next session to be held March 2.

Coibion outlined the procedure by which the group will arrive at its consensus about the future for Lincoln and Lancaster County, and, with the aid of slides, took the group on a tour of the city, noting his impressions of topics for discussion.

Coibion said that although the group would be concerned with physical goals, such goals are also affected by social and economic factors which must be taken into consideration.

Much of the discussion of committee members centered on the composition of a liaison group between Coibion and the committee.

What You Can Do About

Dull, Throbbing Pain of Nervous Tension Headaches

WHAT'S BEST TO TAKE for relief you can trust?

Doctors who specialize in treating headaches state most headaches are caused by emotional tension and stress. Figures run as high as 90%. Anyone who suffers from tension headaches knows only too well how the throbbing, pounding pain can dull your efficiency, slow you down and play havoc with your nerves.

What's best to take? Clinical tests by doctors on over 500 patients who complained of tension headaches proved Anacin® relieves nervous tension headaches just as effectively as the expensive leading prescription. Anacin gives you the same powerful pain-relief. Yet Anacin needs no prescription and costs far less.

Here is another convincing fact about Anacin. Replies from a survey of over 1600 specialists in internal medicine showed twice as many doctors said they would recommend their patients use the Anacin formula to relieve pain over that of the other leading extra-strength tablet. Just consider that—twice as many doctors prefer Anacin.

You can trust Anacin to relieve headache pain in minutes. Then its nervous tension and painful pressure on nerves go, too. Anacin lets you do a better job. Lets you function better.

Despite its great strength, Anacin is not habit-forming. You can take it without getting an upset stomach. Anacin doesn't leave you 'groggy'. It makes good sense to take fast acting, extra strong—doctor approved Anacin Tablets.

Jones And Bartels Beatrice Honorees

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Beatrice — A young music teacher and the president of a concrete firm shared top honors Tuesday night at the fiftieth anniversary banquet of the Beatrice Chamber of Commerce.

Some 435 persons saw John Bartels, who heads the Beatrice Public School music department, receive the Jaycees' Distinguished Service Award. Everett R. Jones, president of the Beatrice Concrete Company and vice president of J & L Engineering, Inc., was recipient of the Good Neighbor Award.

Tributes also went to Mrs. Leona Randall as Outstanding Women's Division Member and to John Fauber for his membership enlistment efforts.

The half-century milestone also brought recognition to 33 firms which have been in continuous existence here at least 50 years. Sterling Kent, chamber executive vice president, reviewed the organization's part in Beatrice progress since its formation as a charter group with the U.S. Chamber.

Guest speaker J. D. Anderson, Omaha insurance executive and current Ak-Sar-Ben king, commended the chamber as "a marshaling ground for city betterment."

Ranging from the humorous to the religious, he identified the "five great powers of living" as physical well-being, balanced mental capacity, social well-being, financial security and spiritual convictions.

"Of these, spiritual convictions truly is the priceless ingredient," he said.

"Yet it is within reach of each of us."

Bartels, 32, was cited for work in St. Paul's Lutheran Church as well as curricular and extra-curricular music activity. It was noted that volunteer junior high choir participation has mushroomed from 40 students to over 460 "through his outstanding leadership."

Jones, 53, was honored for numerous contributions ranging from the school board to the Presbyterian Church to the Martin Luther Sheltered Workshop. He is a past chamber president, is current president of the Beatrice Development Corporation and is on the board of Educational Service Unit Number Five.

The banquet marked the assumption of presidential duties by Linus Fincham, succeeding Herb Schneider. Harry Fox served as toastmaster.

Wet Areas Cause Feeders Trouble

Feeding areas for livestock throughout the state are wet and are causing some trouble, according to the State-Federal Bureau of Agricultural Statistics.

The bureau's weekly crop report said grazing of field forages is still limited by snow and ice cover and livestock could get little feed last week after mid-week although they remained in many of the stalk fields.

Ranchers were reported feeding hay and cake on winter ranges and farmers have increased supplemental feeding of hay and other forages as colder weather appeared, the report said.

Many wheat fields are reported covered with snow thus affording some protection from winds and cold temperatures.
